ALDO PARISOT

Stradivarius Cello—

Aldo Parisot to Be Artist At Second Concert Thursday

One of the topmost musicians in his field, Aldo Parisot, cellist, will be heard Thursday night in the second Community Concert. Sedalians are fortunate to be able to hear in person an artist such as Parisot, who has appeared as soloist no less than seven times with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, the last occasion being in November. He has played an equal number of times with the Pittsburgh Symphony under such noted conductors as Stokowski, DeSabata, Paray and Bakaleinikoff.

New York critics and audiences have also lauded Parisot in recital. The profound impression he created at his first New York recital in December, 1950, at Town Hall led to his first engagement with the Philharmonic-Society.

Born in Natal, Brazil, Aldo Parisot became a favorite with South American audiences when he made his first public appearance at the age of twelve, playing the Haydn concerto with orchestra in his home town. At 18, Parisot went to Rio de Janeiro to further his musical training with Grosso, a former pupil of the great Pablo Casals. In 1946, Parisot came to the United States and soon gained here the high reputation he had won in his own country.

His debut in 1947 at the famous Berkshire Festival led to his appearance with the Springfield Symphony, and invitations for appearances with other orchestras quickly followed. Among the many orchestras with which the artist has appeared as soloist are those of Cincinnati, Springfield, Norwalk, New Haven and at the Tanglewood Festival.

Parisot now tours America annually and the increasing number of his engagements is indicative of his prestige as a major concert artist. Last season, he toured Tunisia, Algeria, Italy, France and Germany as a member of the New Music String Quartet, under the auspices of the United States State Department. This fall he joined the faculty of Baltimore's famous Peabody Conservatory of Music, where he heads the Cello department and the Chamber Music department.

Parisot will play a Stradivarius cello, dated 1730, and called the "last" Stradivarius cello by some authorities, who claim it was the last made by the master's own hand.

His accompanist, Lester Taylor, will also present a group of piano numbers. The concert will be heard at 8:15 o'clock in Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Californian Will Continue On Quiz Show

Mrs. Marvin Crawford, California, Mo. who has appeared the past several weeks as a contestant on the $64,000 Challenge television program in New York City, will appear again on Sunday night Dec. 2 to try for $16,000.

Mrs. Crawford whose subject is "The Bible", was asked Sunday night, "Who said I Go The Way Of All The Earth?" and answered David. She was then told that she had given the incorrect answer and was presented a check for $1,000. Mr. Skeen, the other contestant, who answered Joshua and correctly answered the other parts of the question, was given a check for $8,000. Later however, Mrs. Crawford was told that she was correct as both David and Joshua had made the statement. Since the program judge made the mistake, Mrs. Crawford was given credit for answering the full question and will again be able to try for $16,000 on this coming Sunday night program in New York City.

Negro Is Slain In Knife Fight Here Friday

An argument over $1 resulted in the death of one man and the other being held in the Pettis County jail on a homicide charge. Delbert Clark, 46, a Negro, is dead from a stab wound and Joe Fisher, 70, also Negro, 117 West Cooper, is being held after the argument in the Main Street Bar, 109 East Main, about 5 o'clock Friday evening.

The incident took place inside the establishment and Clark staggered outside of the building and walked about 15 feet west of the front door where he collapsed and dropped dead on the sidewalk. He was dead before aid could be administered.

It all happened, according to an investigation by Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors Prossecuting Attorney Harold Barrick and Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher, Coroner, when Fisher demanded his change from a dollar he had given Clark and Clark didn't produce it, after which the fatal scuffle occurred.

Herbert J. Bradshaw, 74, 405 North Moniteau, who was in a booth with the two, went to police headquarters later where he gave a statement regarding the incident. Bradshaw told the officers that Clark had been given a dollar by Fisher to get a pint of wine, and when he returned Fisher asked him for the change. He didn't have the wine or the change and Fisher demanded his money.

"Delbert said wait, and Joe said 'I want my money' and got up," Bradshaw said. "Then Clark got up and Joe started toward him and Clark knocked him down. When Joe got up he was cut. People got them apart and Delbert went out on the sidewalk.

"I seen both with a knife in their hands. Both were cut I seen the blood over there (he pointed at where Fisher would have been) and I seen blood over here (where Clark stood). I don't know who cut who first. I was setting in the booth and didn't get up," Bradshaw concluded.

Fisher, when taken before the officers, was asked if he was cut and replied "No I'm not cut."

In telling his side of the story, Fisher said that Clark came back to him and asked for the price of a drink. "I gave him a dollar," Fisher said.

"When he came back I said

Santa Arrives in City Aboard Fire Truck In Christmas Parade on Saturday Morning

The Lions Club float won first place in the civic clubs division in the Santa Claus parade float contest Saturday morning with the Business and Professional Women's Club second; East Broadway Christian Church was first and the First Methodist Church second in the church division; Quisenberry 4-H Club was first and the Busy Beavers second in the 4-H club division; Xi Omega Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi was first and Epsilon Beta, Beta Sigma Phi in the women's clubs division; and Hughesville School first and Job's Daughters second in the junior division.

Several thousand people lined the sidewalks along the march route to watch the floats, bands, new cars, a saddle club and some clowns go by, with the guest star being Santa Claus himself, mounted high on a hook and ladder fire truck.

The city police were assisted by American Legion auxiliary policemen in keeping the streets clear of traffic and pedestrians before and during the parade. The Jaycees provided parade marshals.

The parade formed on West 16th Street, just east of Vermont. It moved east on 16th to Kentucky, down Kentucky to 14th, east on 14th to Ohio, north on Ohio to Main, west on Main to Osage and south on Osage to the dispersal points at Third, Fourth and Fifth Streets.

Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors headed the parade, followed by the Civil Air Patrol color guard and the Tipton High School Band. Then came several cars bearing city and county dignitaries and Chamber of Commerce officials. The rest of the parade attractions followed.

There was real appeal in the Lions Club float the theme of which was "The Littlest Angel." The littlest angel was a little girl from the Crippled Children's Center in a wheel chair surrounded with beautifully wrapped Christmas gifts, each representing a gift to help her to learn to walk and do the things other children do. A very lovely girl as an angel stood before her holding the streamers to the gifts. In the three red and white cars that followed were more children from the Crippled Children's Center and on the white paper across the sides of each car was printed: "More Angels."

The Hughesville float was different and had a distinct air of the gaiety of Christmas. There

CHRISTMAS PAGENTRY — A shiny red fire truck carried Santa Claus into Sedalia Saturday morning in the annual Christmas parade sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. At left, the bewhiskered old gentleman turns to wave at his happy young fans.

He was preceded by many colorful floats, bands, new automobiles, and he was followed by saddle club in Western regalia. One of the lovely floats was the Hughesville, shown immediately below, in which girls dressed as reindeer "pulled" a huge, glittering sleigh. It was first in the junior division.

Below it is shown the float of the East Broadway Christain Church, which won first place in the church division. Its theme was "Peace on Earth."

Adults, Teen-Agers Are Urged to Get Salk Polio Shots

The Salk Polio vaccine is now in plentiful supply and most doctors in Pettis County have enough to give shots to adults and teen-agers as well as young children according to information received from Dr. T. J. Hopkins, chairman of the polio committee for the Pettis County Medical Society.

Adults and teen-agers are urged to obtain the shots as soon as possible. Statistics released by the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis shows the polio rate among adults over 20 and teen-agers is on the increase.

Over 1,000 adults, teen-agers and young children were hit by polio in the Chicago epidemic this past summer. Of that number, not a single paralyzed person has received three shots of Salk vaccine.

Those who have had an attack of polio should be vaccinated also since there are three types of the virus. An infection by one type does not necessarily give immunity to the other two.

Officials point out that the Salk vaccine greatly reduced polio incidence this year and that it is possible to reduce the incidence even more this year.

Outstanding 4-H Members Are Recognized, Awarded at Banquet Held Saturday Night

The 4-H Recognition Night program Saturday began with a dinner at 6:30 p.m. given by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce at the Smith-Cotton Cafeteria. Members of the agriculture division of the Chamber of which Everett Stevenson is director, and B. C. Claycomb is general chairman, and members of the board of directors assisted in serving the 4-H members, their parents and leaders at the dinner.

From 7 to 7:45 films were shown at the high school auditorium, and the meeting started at 7:45 with George Bucholtz, president of the 4-H Council, presiding.

Invocation was by Paul Stephens and the pledge of allegiance and 4-H pledge were led by Glenna Faye Elliott and Joe Welliver. Group singing was led by Martha Hammon, Donna Allen and Linda Turner. Carol McCure was pianist.

George Bucholtz then expressed appreciation to the Chamber of Commerce, the response being made by Vernon Rodick, president of the Chamber.

President Orders 21,500 Hungarian Refugees Admitted

Original Plan Offered Asylum To Only 5,000; US Government Hints at Still Another Increase

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower shredded red tape today and ordered 21,500 Hungarian refugees from Soviet terror admitted to the United States. The original plan offered asylum to only 5,000.

In announcing the big increase at the President's vacation headquarters, the White House said the greater number "will be brought here with the utmost practicable speed" under an emergency program. Eisenhower will ask Congress in January to take long range action.

The President's move—to "give practical effect to the American people's intense desire to help" the victims of Soviet oppression—came as he awaited the arrival tomorrow of Secretary of State Dulles for a review of the still tense Middle East situation and the world picture generally.

Dulles will fly to Augusta tomorrow from Key West, Fla., where he has been recupterating from a Nov. 3 operation for intestinal cancer. He plans to return to his Washington desk Monday and will leave next weekend for a NATO meeting in Paris.

Continuing to combine relaxation with work, Eisenhower got in another round of golf today and kept an eye on the Army-Navy football game at Philadelphia.

Even as the President hiked the Hungarian refugee quota by 16,500, the government hinted there may be still another increase later.

"When these numbers have been exhausted, the situation will be re-examined," a White House statement said.

Iraq's King Suspends Its Parliament

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—King Faisal II today suspended Parliament for a month at the request of Premier Nuri Said.

The action was taken shortly after the newly convened Parliament was told by the King that all Iraq is under martial law.

He said this was done to protect the army while it prepares to take part with Jordan in the "common defense of Arab states."

Suspension of Parliament staves off debate on the current Middle East crisis. Premier Said has obtained a breathing spell in which to wait and hope for a calmer Middle East atmosphere.

Parliament was opened this morning with the traditional pomp. The royal decree suspending the sessions came several hours later.

Faisal acted at a moment when Iraq is increasingly concerned concerned with activities of Syria. Baghdad newspapers say Communist elements in the Syrian capital are moving toward a position of control. Damascus radio attacks on the Iraqi government are becoming more and more violent.

In his throne speech Faisal declared that "aggression on Egypt threatened the security of all Arab countries and has resulted in a stand by Egypt to defend its independence and sovereignty." At one point he used the phrase "beloved Egypt."

These words from the throne, spoken for Said's government, were obviously aimed at calming Arab nationalist feelings among the populace.

3-Car, Truck Crash Injures 11 Saturday

Several in Serious Condition as Pileup Occurs South of City

Eleven persons were injured and three others escaped injury in a crash of three passenger cars and a pickup truck about six miles south of Sedalia on U. S. Highway 65 about 10:25 p. m. Saturday. Several were considered to be in serious condition at the Bothwell Hospital.

Larry England, 21, 704 East 16th, was considered the more serious of the injured. He suffered a chest injury, was in shock, and had multiple facial injuries.

His wife, Mrs. Margaret Sue McNealy England, 19, was in shock and suffered multiple lacerations.

Miss Barbara Dunn, 19, 1604 South Prospect, suffered a fracture of the right leg and right arm, multiple lacerations.

Miss Martha Tohle, 19, Bethany, Mo., suffered multiple lacerations.

Walter Loveland, 22, 1515 South Missouri, lacerations and leg injuries.

Garry Cox, 21, 1002 East Fifth, suffered minor hurts.

The above six were riding in the same automobile driven by Loveland.

Jack Krause, 23, 232 South Missouri, driver of one car, suffered a laceration of the lips and bruises.

Wayne Butterwick, 23, 315 South Hancock, facial cuts, bruises and shock.

Wesley Shirley, 19, 1100 South Osage, laceration on the head.

The above three were riding together.

J. L. Vaughn, 50, Lakeview Heights, injury to both legs, contusion over the left eye, lacerations about the mouth.

Raymond Canill, 56, Peculiar, Mo., suffered cuts on the chin, bruises, and was in shock.

Vaughn and Cahill were in a pickup truck, according to Cahill.

Melba Vaughn, daughter of Vaughn, and Arnold Knox, of near Cole Camp, were riding in a 1951 Ford.

The accident occurred, according to Wesley Shirley who was riding with Jack Krause in a 1952 Ford tudor sedan, accompanied by Wayne Butterwick, as they were headed south toward Cole Camp.

Shirley told a newspaper reporter that Krause came over a slight rise in the road when he saw an old pickup truck in the middle of the highway pulling another car out of a ditch.

The Krause car first struck the truck, owned by Vaughn, and occupied by Raymond Cahill who was sitting on the right side of the front seat. The crash apparently jerked the 1951 Ford car, which was being towed into the highway, and it was struck by a 1955 Ford tudor sedan driven by Walter Loveland also going south.

The Loveland car, the Krause car and the 51 Ford owned by Vaughn were all demolished, while the truck was extensively damaged.

The injured were rushed to the Bothwell Hospital in ambulances from Ewings, McLaughlin's and Gillespie's.

At the hospital, Doctors D. R. Edwards, A. L. Lowe, John B. Carlisle, Donald Proctor and Dr. E. L. Rhodes, of Warsaw, attended the casualties.

Ten Airmen Die As B52 Crashes During Takeoff

CASTLE AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., Dec. 1 (AP)— A shattering flaming crash of the Air Force's biggest A-bomb carrier last night killed 10 Air Force men. Their 8½-million-dollar B52 fell into a plowed field less than three minutes after takeoff.

Castle AFB headquarters said today a team of experts will try to learn what caused the eight-jet swept-wing plane to plunge from the sky. There were no survivors.

The control tower had no radio contact with the big plane after it became airborne.

Regional Library Notes—

State Aid Check Provides Help in Library Expenses

This week the Regional Library received state aid checks for the city of Boonville and Cooper and Pettis Counties. Although the amount of this assistance was not large, the $330 received by the library district represents the cost of over 100 books or the salary of a part-time student aide or gasoline for several months of operation. It is right that citizens should be aware that public libraries do receive some aid from the State of Missouri.

This state aid program is designed to benefit each library in the state. Fifty per cent of the total appropriation is allotted to every tax-supported public library on the basis of population served. The remaining 50 per cent is distributed to county and regional libraries by formula based on the per capita income of the library district. Ten per cent of this last 50 is held in reserve to be given as establishment grants if new libraries are formed during the year. If there are no new libraries established this sum reverts to the existing county and regional operation. These monetary grants are of great assistance to those areas whose people are making the maximum effort to support good library service but where the natural wealth of the area is far from adequate to provide the necessary funds.

From time to time certain books are received that may have special appeal if called to public attention. Typical of the type is "The Book of the Sky" edited by A. C. Spectorsky. For those familiar with the other two volumes "The Book of the Sea" and "The Book of the Mountains," this magnificent work will need no introduction. Containing the best and most exciting writing and pictures about the sky from all times and all places, this book is for those who enjoy the challenge that this, our last frontier, offers to men now and in the past. It holds something of interest for historians, amateur astronomers, bird watchers or pilots, which makes it a versatile collection.

Twenty years ago Sheldon Cheyney's "World History of Art" was first published. It became a standard volume for both the general reader and the student of art. Now a completely revised, rewritten and reset edition is available in a most attractive format. Covering painting, sculpture, architecture, and minor arts of both the West and the Orient, and illustrated profusely, this is a book to examine and enjoy.

Moose Club To Have Seven Toy Stations

There will be seven collection depots in Sedalia for the deposit of toys for needy children in the Moose "Operation Santa Claus" campaign to make this a "toyful" Christmas for all boys and girls in this area.

Collection containers will be placed at the following locations, according to W. G. McMellen, chairman of the local Moose civic affairs committee: R & H Market, 16th and Park; Anderson's Grocery, Grand and Cooper; Bing's United Super Markets; Safeway, Inc., Fifth and Ohio; East End Drug Store, Fifth and Engineer; and Moose Lodge, 114 East Second Street, or phone 3229 after 4 p.m. for pickup of toys.

The local Moose lodge is cooperating with all Moose lodges in the United States, Canada and Alaska in this "Toys for Needy Children" campaign. It is not necessary that all toys be new, but in the case of used toys, they must be undamaged and in workable and presentable condition.

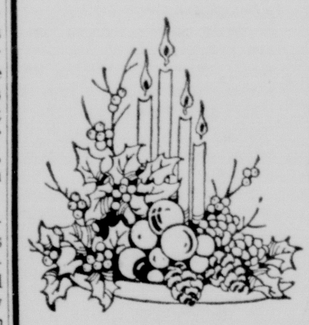

"We regret that time will not permit the repair or rejuvenation of used toys," said Chairman McMellen, "so, therefore, the used toys donated must be in good condition."

The Moose committee will obtain a list of needy children in this area, whether they reside in their own homes, in orphanages or hospitals, from local welfare agencies and officials. Then on Christmas Eve, the Moose will deliver all of the toys collected. All residents of Sedalia are urged to help make this campaign a huge success.

Members of the Moose lodge's civic affairs committee who are working with Chairman McMellen in the "toyful" Christmas program are Harry Satterwhite, Leo Gentges, M. T. Robb, Thomas McNally and Lloyd Deuschle.

Income Tax Blanks Ready After Dec. 3

Federal income tax forms for the preparation of 1956 returns will be available about Dec. 3 in reasonable quantities to accountants, attorneys and other professional personnel who need advance copies, E. O. Bookwalter, district director of the Kansas City office of the Internal Revenue Service, said today. A few advance sample copies for study are available now.

Individual taxpayers on record will receive their forms and instruction booklets through the mails on the same schedule as last year, during late December or early January, Bookwalter said.

There are very few changes in the form other than minor revisions for clarity and simplification. The instruction booklet which accompanies it has been changed, however, to provide a line-by-line series of explanations, keyed to the arrangement of the form and its sequence of entries.

New type-faces have been used in both form and booklet, Mr. Bookwalter said, and should, with the simplified treatment and explanations, make preparation of a return much easier than in past years.

The Internal Revenue Service will sponsor the printing of 185 million copies of Form 1040 and 61 million of Form 1040A, the simplified punch-card for incomes of less than $5,000.

Members of professions requiring advance copies of forms should write the District Director at 811 Grand Avenue, Kansas City 6, Mo., for study samples immediately available or bulk shipments after Dec. 3.

Chairs Need Test For Size Just Like Clothing Articles

Just as in buying an article of clothing, you should "try it on for size" when buying a sofa or chair. Sit in it and relax as you will in your own home. A comfortable chair for a small person will not be the ultimate in comfort for a 6-footer, so have your husband try it too.

Examine the other features too. Are the cushions firm enough? Turn the chair over and check such features as webbing and lining. Webbing should be closely woven and firm. Nailing in the framework is taboo. Bracing with corner blocks joined by screws and glue indicates good construction.

Then note the tailoring: seams and welting should be neat and even. If tufted, buttons should be firmly sewn.

Use Coat of White For 'Blonde' Finish

For an easy, inexpensive "blonde" finish, first apply a coat of interior white undercoat thinned so that the grain pattern shows through. Second: apply clear shellac, flat varnish or lacquer.

Attractive and economical one coat stain waxes are also available in various colors. If you prefer a dark stain, first apply coat of clear resin sealer to subdue grain content.

Patrol Gives Book on Road Legislation

JEFFERSON CITY— (MPA) — A booklet designed to educate the public on legislation needed to improve traffic safety is being distributed by the Missouri highway patrol.

A six page booklet prepared by the patrol outlines 10 recommended changes in state traffic laws limit and increased membership of the patrol.

Sgt. F. W. Shadwell, safety information officer, said the patrol hopes to get support for the proposals in the coming general assembly by educating the public. Each booklet requests the reader to seek the support of his representative or senator for "strict modern traffic laws to make our highways safe."

In a foreword the patrol said: "We believe these 10 changes will go a long way toward reducing traffic accident frequency and consequently reduce the deaths, injuries and tremendous cost of careless and imprudent driving."

The booklet recommended the following legislative program:

1. Permit 16 year old traffic violators to be prosecuted as adults or raise the minimum legal driving age to 17.
2. Strengthen provisions for revocation and suspension of licenses as "The most effective means of deterring would be traffic violators."
3. Reduce penalties for drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident to a misdemeanor to obtain more convictions and revocations of licenses.
4. Make it an offense to disregard traffic control devices on rural highways.
5. Require all commercial vehicles except pickup trucks to comply with public service commission safety regulations.
6. Set up a maximum speed limit of 65 during daylight and 55 at night.
7. Require yearly safety inspection of all motor vehicles.
8. Set up regulations for pedestrians and hitchikers on the highways.
9. Provide some means of dealing swiftly with weekend traffic violators — especially out of state drivers — to eliminate a wait until courts open on Mondays.
10. Increase personnel of Missouri state highway patrol.

Two o fthe patrol's recommendations — the speed limit and in crease in patrol membership—are expected to be introduced on the opening day of the 69th general assembly. Speed limit proposals have failed in past legislatures but the increased patrol proposal will have its maiden run.

$1 Million Celebration For Inaugural

WASHINGTON (AP) — A million dollar celebration is being planned for the second inauguration of President Eisenhower.

A weekend of festivities will be climaxed with four separate but "coequal" inaugural balls on the evening of Jan. 21 to take care of the anticipated crowds, the committee planning the program decided yesterday.

"There will be no second-rate balls," Chairman Robert V. Fleming announced, adding that all four will be visited by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Vice President and Mrs. Nixon. Two were held in 1953, but the committee decided more were needed this time. They will be held at the National Guard Armory and the Sheraton Park, Statler and Mayflower hotels.

Fleming estimated the committee will raise and spend between $800,000 and a million dollars, exclusive of the costs of the inaugural stands and incidentals at the Capitol for the public oathtaking ceremony and Eisenhower's inaugural address. A congressional appropriation will pay for that.

The 1953 inaugural cost about $700,000 and inaugural ball tickets that year were $12 each. Fleming said the added cost would probably put them up to $15 for next year.

The committee, meeting formally for the first time, decided also to picture both Eisenhower and Nixon, side by side, on the inaugural medal, a two-inch bronz disc. Past inaugural medals have carried only the likeness of the President.

Fleming said the inaugural parade will be much shorter than the 4½-hour line of march in 1953 but will still be a "colorful, adequate and interesting parade."

To help keep it moving, the committee arranged for television monitoring at various points so the parade marshals can keep track of each unit and dispatch jeeps by radio to speed up any laggards.

Santa Arrives

was Santa's huge sleigh in which rode three girls and the sleigh was being pulled by eight young girls in little brown suits and reindeer horns that even Santa would want to trade his famous eight reindeers for. They had on little white boots with sleighbells that jingled as they trotted along.

Xi Omega Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, had the theme "In Tune With the Season" with a large gold harp which was being played by a woman in a red robe and a group of youngsters in bright red suits each with a musical instrument.

East Broadway Christian Church had "Peace on Earth" as its theme, and had two angels in front and a little white church.

Quisenberry 4-H club had a lovely red and white float with the theme "World Peace For Christmas." There were two girls on the float in formals.

The Business and Professional Women's Club had a beautiful float in silver and white with the theme, "Peace On Earth at Christmas." The float had a replica of the world in front of which was a large white dove. Silver Christmas trees were at each corner and on the float were children wearing white choir robes.

The Job's Daughters float was lovely with young girls in white and royal purple robes kneeling to form a cross. The inspiring picture the girls made represented "Prayer at Christmas."

Epsilon Beta, Beta Sigma Phi had as the theme "Christmas Around the World." Miss America was in the center, with children in a circle about her and wearing the costumes of countries all over the world.

The Busy Beavers 4-H Club float's theme was "T'was the Night Before Christmas." Before a fireplace from which stockings hung and a Christmas tree decorated with balloons of all colors, a woman was actually reading the famous poem from a book while some children sat listening.

The First Methodist Church float had as its theme "A Gift Without a Giver Is Bare." It consisted of a huge gift box wrapped in silver foil and wrapped with red ribbon, sitting in the center of a white platform.

A close second to Santa as favorites with the youngsters were the clowns who tossed candy like confetti, causing scrambles among the young people. There was also a trick car that snorted smoke and did everything but fly. There was plenty of singing, too, one of the more prominent groups being the Missouri Pacific Men's Chorus.

General chairman of the Christmas parade was Ed Kehde.

Youth Is Held In Connection With Break-In

Chester K. "Perky" Paxton, 19, of 818 East Ninth, was picked up by the police early Saturday morning for investigation in connection with the breaking into of the Tullis-Hall Dairy, Fifth and the MKT railroad tracks, earlier in the morning. The business place was entered about 1 a. m. Saturday.

August Koelling, night man at the plant, arrived to prepare for loading of trucks when he saw someone in the place. Koelling eased out, got into his car and drove to police headquarters to report the robbery.

A description of the person led police to pick up Paxton for questioning and investigation. As the officers started to drive him to town in the police patrol car, the officers reported Paxton remarked, "You can't hang this one on me." The police officers said they had not mentioned to Paxton what they had picked him up for.

One of the officers asked him what he was talking about, the officers said, and he reported to have replied, "the break-in at Tullis-Hall." He was then asked how he knew about it, and the officers reported he said, "I read it in the paper."

No report had been ready for the Capital, as the morning paper had already gone to press before the break-in occurred.

'Where's my dollar?' and he (Clark) sat there with his eyes rolling and grunted a little. He just sat there and grunted. I raised my voice and asked him for my dollar." Fisher told the officers.

Continuing he said, "He (Clark) jumped up with an old piece of knife and I got up and rushed at him. I said let me alone, and he only grunted and rolled his eyes. Both of us were on our feet and he sprung out of the booth and I kinda gave him a jolt and he shoved me, and my legs are bad and I fell down. I jumped up and he came out with an old 'frog sticker' and I came out with my knife."

At this point in the statement Chief Neighbors told Fisher that Clark was dead and Fisher replied that he only cut him "a little." He was asked where he cut him and Fisher pointed to the right side of his face and neck. Clark suffered a stab wound in the right upper part of his body above the shoulder bone and near the jugular vein. Fisher said he cut Clark "once or twice."

Fisher said he had his knife in his jumper pocket. "He was a lot younger feller than me." Fisher told the officers when asked how it happened, "I was fighting so fast he didn't have a chance to cut me."

Clark was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance, but he was pronounced dead upon arrival. Dr Stauffacher went to the hospital and viewed the body. Clark's sisters were there and asked the body be sent to the Alexander Funeral Home.

Prosecuting Attorney Barrick said he would file formal charges following an inquest which was set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Courthouse by Dr. Stauffacher.

Clark was born in Pettis County April 24, 1910, and had lived most of his life here.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jewel Clark of Chicago; one son, Delbert Clark Jr., Chicago; four daughters, Jeweldyne Clark, Shirley Ann Clark and Catherine Clark, of Chicago, and Norman Rose Clark, Detroit, Mich.; his mother, Mrs. Marion Smith, 406 North Washington; four sisters, Mrs. Jewell Cochran of 205 East Morgan, Miss Rowene Clark of 406 North Washington, Miss Bertha Mae Clark, on Cooper street, and Mrs. Pearl Dixon of Warrensburg; six brothers, Edward Clark of 516 North Moniteau, Wilbur Clark of 620 West Cooper Leon Clark of Ft. Wayne, Ind., George Clark of 1009 North Osage, Harvey Clark of 406 North Washington, and Lawrence Clark of 205 East Hogan, with whom he made his home part of the time; an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Byrd Briscoe, Knob Noster, and several nieces and nephews.

The body is at the Alexander Funeral Home.

Center Teaches Children Basic Functions for Everyday Living

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles relating to the Crippled Children's Center, a non-profit welfare, health and educational institution located in the nurses' home at the Bothwell Hospital.

It is said that a willingness to learn, to adjust, and to grow is real humility. One will find this is true with the children at the Crippled Children's Center. Their guided training is one of the most interesting phases one would observe at the center.

Under the direction of Mrs. Rudolph Swope, director of the center, the educational features include the nursery, the kindergarten, and the regular classroom. Each of these groups starts the day with a song, a prayer, and a few moments of "quiet time."

In view of the diversity of the youngsters enrolled at the center, each class is grouped as to needs of individual attention by the volunteer helpers and staff members.

The nursery group, presently consisting of four little girls, operates on a 15-minute schedule in various activities from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. There is a milk recess for them at mid-morning.

The nursery children are guided in the training of self-help, such as learning to tie shoes, snap snaps, opening and closing of zippers and other movements which help to coordinate fingers. They are also brought in contact with other objects found around the home which they can operate to their advantage. The new "gadget board" constructed recently by the Striped College 4-H woodworking class is used extensively for this type of training.

Other types of coordination development comes from the teaching of the use of toys, crayons, pencils, chalk, finger paint, clay, and even playing games. Social adjustment also comes about with activities of this type, as the youngster learns to share and get along with his classmates. One of the most popular activities includes periodic "tea parties."

The kindergarten is the next level, being primarily for the promotion and correction of speech. Word meaning is taught with pictures, crayon work, and science units. With the addition of a new speech therapist on Jan. 1, a highly organized speech program will take place not only with the kindergarten children, but also with all youngsters attending the center.

Mrs. Swope regards her science studies in the kindergarten group as one of the best means for mental growth in the children. Each child studies insects, leaves, trees, the American Indians, the Pilgrims, and the Christmas story as various seasons approach. They are also taught to form a left to right eye movement for reading and to associate pictures with words. This extremely elementary way of instruction is designed particularly for the exceptional child since his progress is normally slower, more deliberate, but with the satisfaction of security. There are seven in the kindergarten.

The third group at the center is the regular classroom group. Most of these children are older, but age is not the deciding factor. A child's capabilities, both mentally and physically, play a part in the type of instruction offered here. Spelling, language, art, the sciences, and other basic subjects are taught. Again, much individual attention is afforded to the children of this group.

In every phase of teaching at the center, the child is taught how to do things which will help him grow up to live independently in the family life at home. With speech therapy being offered professionally right away, development in the child to be able to express himself will eliminate a lot of frustrations. Frustration of this type more than not leads to poor coordination of the body.

Physical therapy has been given to the children by a professional, Walter Gault, since the opening of school in May. It has been amazing to witness the progress which has taken place in most of the children as far as development and use of their bodies. There are ten children enrolled in the kindergarten.

The whole training at the center of the 21 children requires many people. With five full-time employees operating at the center now, there are 56 volunteer helpers assisting at various times during the week. These volunteer helpers now assisting include:

Mrs. M. E. Hollis, Mrs. Earl Lashley, Mrs. Robert Stewart, Mrs. Alvin Gamber, Mrs. Sylvia Kyger, Mrs. Tom Soter, Catherine Scott, Mrs. Carl Seigel, Mrs. J. O. McMurdo, Mrs. William F. Thomas, Ada Gamber, Kathryn Rosencrans, Mrs. Maxine Peters.

Mrs. Margaret Fitch, Mrs. Virginia Stafford, Mrs. Bud McCown, Mrs. Sam Knapp, Mrs. Gerald Welch, Mrs. Reed Bailey, Mrs. James Dickman, Mrs. Charles Sebeck, Mrs. Donald Remer, Mrs. Nora McKenny, Mrs. E. J. Feig, Mrs. G. A. Cox, Mrs. R. S. Wells, Mrs. Cleo McCune, Mrs. Edgar Urton, Mrs. George Collins, Mrs. Lucille Jones, Mrs. Helen Demuth, Mrs. Herman Logan, Mrs. L. J. Brown, Mrs. Ford Logan, Mrs. Ernest Schupp, Mrs. Edward Christian, Mrs. Walter Jessee.

Mrs. David Eisenstein, Mrs. Jack Howard, Mrs. Pierre Lamy, Mrs. Tom Wilson, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Mrs. Joyce Freeman, Mrs. W. E. Anderson, Jr., Mrs. red Schwenk, Mrs. R. W. Henderson, Mrs. R. J. Lemire, Mrs. Lucy Baldwin, Mrs. Ray Lippard, Mrs. E. S. Lugen, Mrs. George Lockett, Mrs. Bob Fingland, Mrs. Tom Yount, Mrs. Fred Wesner, Mrs. Keith Yount, and Mrs. James Labahn.

E. L. McClure Talks Before Local Agents

Ernest L. McClure, general agent, Continental Assurance Co., Kansas City, was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Sedalia Association of Life Underwriters Friday at the Pacific Cafe. McClure is also the president of the Missouri Association of Life Underwriters.

McClure outlined the history and development of the National Association of Life Underwriters which was founded over 60 years ago. It has now grown to a membership of 65,000 life insurance agents, all of whom have become professionalized in their field.

The speaker related that surveys conducted recently have reflected that life insurance agents and counselors have proportionately increased more in prestige than any other occupational group. This has been reflected in discussions with members of the public as well as observing the increase in life insurance volume in this country. McClure pointed out that the state of Missouri alone has over $10,000,000,000 of life insurance in force on its citizens. This was the same amount the whole nation carried in 1919.

The state president informed the group of the work that both the national and state organizations are doing in keeping the life insurance industry on a high plane. He mentioned the state organization is presently trying to encourage the state legislature to pass an agent's qualification bill. This would require more careful screening of life insurance agents entering the field. One thing which would accomplish this would be a requirement that a person entering the business have a rigid examination to pass. He added that the national association is constantly promoting bills in Congress which will give the life insurance buyer more security and protection.

Tom Steinle, president of the local organization, had charge of the meeting. Bill Hopkins, vice-president and program chairman, introduced Abe Silverman, local member, who presented McClure to the group. Silverman and McClure were former business associates and life-long friends.

William R. Jackson, co-chairman of membership, also spoke to the group about plans for increasing membership in the local organization. He revealed that there are approximately 20 other life insurance agents in this area who are not members of the local organization.

Guests at the meeting included Mrs. Abe Silverman and Bill Ashley, who is associated with Continental Assurance Co. in Kansas City.

Miss Norma Schlobohm

ChurchesHave New Director Of Education

Miss Norma Schlobohm is the director of Christian Education for the new larger parish which is being organized in the Sedalia Presbytery. Churches participating in this venture are the Presbyterian churches of Tipton, New Lebanon, Otterville and High Point. The work of the director of Christian Education consists mainly of training leadership and organization. She will be working in all phases of church activities.

The Larger Parish idea is not entirely new. Churches of small communities and rural areas have jonied forces during the past years, often two or three churches sharing a minister. Through the parish organization, the strong help the weak by pooling talents and leadership from cooperating churches and the parish staff, and churches which would be without a minister and leadership are able to offer an adequate ministry and leadership in the church school.

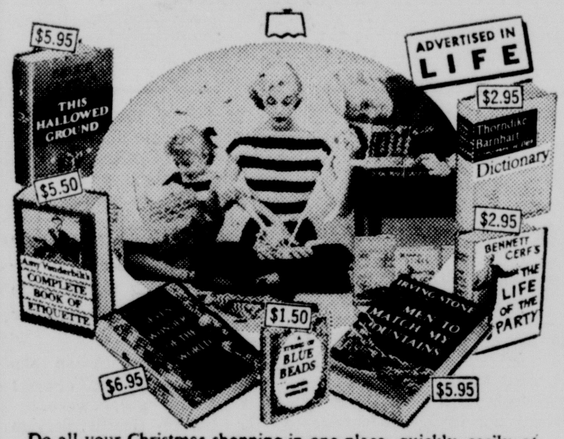

At the present time, the Rev. R. W. Furkin, serving the California, Tipton and Otterville Churches, is the other member of the parish staff.

Miss Schlobohm came to the field Nov. 1. She resides in Tipton. She has had 5½ years of experience in the Iron Mountain Co-Operative Parish in southeastern Missouri.

Sedalia The Shopping Mecca

The annual holiday suggestion to "Buy early — and avoid the Christmas rush," is neither too early nor too late. It's apropos right on the heels of Santa Claus' visit to Sedalia Saturday when the old gentleman was the community's guest and was tendered a magnificent parade in which he participated much to the delight of youngsters and adults who came from all points of Central Missouri to join in the welcome.

Albeit Christmas shopping has already begun in earnest, added impetus was given the enthusiam of the shopping season in Sedalia's stores because of Santa Claus' visit.

Those who have already made partial rounds of Sedalia's stores will find stocks right now plentiful with many choice selections available as may be noted by the generous and attractive window and interior displays.

Right now the Christmas shopping season is moving into high gear, so to further accommodate the thousands of people in Central Missouri who have always considered Sedalia the shopping mecca, merchants have arranged for convenient night store opening hours until 8:30 p. m. beginning Monday and Friday of this week and next. Then the week preceding Christmas the 8:30 night closing hours will be on Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Of course on Christmas Eve, Monday, December 24, the stores will close at 5 p.m.

But it is well not to become involved in that last minute Christmas shopping surge unless you want to just for the excitement of the thing. But you may come away disappointed because early buying indications show that Christmas sales will total more than seven per cent above those of the 1955 season, a new all-time record. The dollar total for November and December is forecast at $31.1 billion.

There are already indications that the retail boom is healthier than last year's which means merchandise is beginning to move early, and if Central Missourians are going to get their choice selections they should join the early throngs of shoppers.

This season the people who flock through our retail stores in search of either holiday gifts or the routine things we buy all seasons, are being offered an almost bewildering assortment of wares from which to choose.

Sedalia stores, too, have a reputation for courteous sales people. This is a tremendous asset for shoppers to encounter when fatigue sometimes makes both shopper and clerk have a tendency to be grumpy. Courtesy works both ways. We hope salespeople and customers will recognize this axiom during the current shopping season.

Something else to remember while we're getting all excited about Christmas shopping is the fact that all this abundance is only possible because we live in a land which recognizes the value of a free enterprise system, in which no one has a monopoly on anything and in which the rewards go to those who please the public most and offer the best values for the shopper's dollar.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Texan Gets Setback From Party Leaders

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—After the Democratic decision to press for a liberal legislative program, party Chairman Paul Butler telephoned Senate leader Lyndon Johnson with the news.

It was a polite way of telling Johnson that he wasn't running the Democratic party. Butler reported that the Executive committee had voted unanimously to seek speedy action on a "Liberal and Enlightened" program. This was exactly opposite to the don't-rock-the-boat policy Johnson himself had announced.

"You are splitting the Democratic party to pieces!" Johnson exploded over the phone. It was a mistake, he warned angrily, to come out with a Democratic program ahead of President Eisenhower's legislative recommendations. The tall Texan also wanted to know who was responsible for challenging his leadership.

"Who introduced the resolution?" he demanded.

"Paul Ziffren," replied Butler, referring to California's national committeeman. Johnson muttered something about reading Ziffren's views in the paper.

After Johnson cooled down, Butler calmly invited him to join the 17-member committee that will "coordinate and advance" the liberal program. Johnson grudgingly replied it was all right with him, but he would have to talk to House speaker Sam Rayburn first.

The executive committee's action represents a triumph for the Northern liberals over the Southern Conservatives. Both wings have been battling backstage to determine which should flap the Democratic party.

Harmonious Lyndon

As the Southerner's fair-haired boy, Johnson is striving to upset no apple carts. In the name to agitate for Civil rights and other liberal legislation. For four years he had argued this would antagonize the South. He had also been the chief architect of a don't-criticize-the-President policy, on the theory Ike was too popular to tangle with.

Johnson's policies, however, didn't win any votes in the South. In fact, he lost his own State of Texas to Eisenhower. As a result, liberal Senators felt they had been led down the garden path by the soft-soaping Texan.

They have now come out for a militant, 16-point program in outright defiance of Johnson's leadership. The executive committee clearly sided with the liberals against Johnson.

The committee's action ran up against token opposition during the closed-door sessions this week. The resolution, calling for speedy action on a liberal program, was introduced by Ziffren and backed by two big-city leaders—Mayor Dave Lawrence of Pittsburgh and Col. Jake Arvey of Chicago.

Louisiana National committeeman Camille Gravel, Jr., speaking for the South, protested that Ziffren's resolution would do what the Democratic convention had refused to do. He referred to the fact that the convention had turned down a minority proposal, calling for "Implementation" of the Democratic platform Civil Rights pledges.

Gravel acknowledged, however, that Ziffren's resolution was both "Legal and Logical." In the end, he voted reluctantly for it.

The executive committee also decided to meet with the 17-member advisory committee Jan. 4 to lay down a legislative program. This means the Democrats will come out with their program before Ike's state of the union recommendations—another slap at Johnson's wait-for-the-President policy.

In short, the executive committee took every possible step to head off Johnson from taking over leadership of the Democratic party.

Democrate-Go-Round

Backstage with the Democrats: Two backstage moves to oust Democratic Chairman Paul Butler didn't even get inside the door at the executive committee meeting. . . Pittsburgh's Mayor Dave Lawrence wanted to replace Butler with Adlia Stevenson's campaign manager, Jim Finnegan. This was spiked by Finnegan himself, who refused to run for the job. Senate leader Lyndon Johnson was supporting two candidates—Kentucky's defeated Sen. Earle Clements or ex-aide Jim Rowe. Johnson sounded out Democratic bigwigs about both men. . . But the executive committee unanimously endorsed Butler.

The Democrats will appeal to the "Little People" for contributions to pay their campaign debts. Adlai Stevenson will send letters to a list of 125,000 small contributors, asking for help in making up the campaign deficit. It cost the Democratic National committee $50,000 to draw up the list during the campaign. The first appeal for funds, however, brought in $200,000. The executive committee also decided to hold an annual "Dollars for Democrats" day. Mayor Lawrence suggested setting up a separate corporation to publish the Democratic party's monthly magazine the Democratic Digest. His suggestion was turned down however, on the grounds that the party might lose control over the magazine.

Whose Ox was Gored

Postmaster General Summerfield has an interesting way of policing the use of Senators' free mailing privileges. If you are a Senator running against his friends, he'll crack down on you. If you win, however, he drops the crackdown.

To illustrate: The Postmaster General started out to collect $7,600 from Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin for using his free mailing frank for political purposes prior to his primary re-election campaign.

At that time, Wiley was being opposed by Summerfield's old guard friends in Wisconsin, headed by Tom Coleman. So the Postmaster General started cracking down on Wiley.

Came September and Wiley won. He beat Tom Coleman's candidate in the GOP primary. Summerfield then dropped his efforts to collect the $7,600, and Senator Wiley blithely continued mailing out political propaganda at the taxpayers' expense. This time, however, he was Coleman Republican. Summerfield didn't care, mailing against a Democrat, not against a Tom Coleman candidate.

Guest Editorial—

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Trucks and Drivers. Mr. Everal Kirby of Peninsula, Ohio, backed his 43-foot tandem-axle trailer and tractor "rig" into a wooden frame with just two inches to spare — and didn't touch it. Like putting one's hand into a glove without touching the glove's inside, someone remarked.

He did several other similar feats. And so did fellow truckers winning skill competitions in their respective classes at the National Trucking Association's National Truck Roadeo. They were the best out of 2,000 drivers who had competed in 17 regional roadeos.

So next time, Mr. Motorist, that a 30-ton leviathon startles you by roaring past on a downgrade don't be too quick to down grade the driver. He might well be one of those who could do things with his highway freight car that you couldn't do with your modest "hardtop."

Unskillful truck drivers account for a very small part of the highway problem. Generally they are the best on the road. It's more likely to be something about the trucks for which the driver may or may not be responsible; overloading, worn tires, worn brakes, for instance. At least that conclusion is suggested by a recent ICC sampling of compliance with its regulations by cross-country trucks.

Report On Coronary Cases Arouses Host of Questions

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

In order to comment on an interesting recent report it is necessary first to say what I am talking about.

Most readers are familiar with the disorder known as angina pectoris. This is a rather common affliction in the older years and more frequent in men than in women.

It is ordinarily the result of some narrowing of the blood vessels which supply the heart muscle so that at times the heart does not get sufficient quantity of blood. These blood vessels are called coronary arteries.

Coronary thrombosis, coronary occlusion or, as it is commonly called, a "heart attack," is a related condition. But in these cases there is a sudden closure of one of the coronary arteries or their branches so that a portion of the heart muscle is completely deprived of its blood supply.

I should like to add that the outlook for many patients with either of these conditions is much better than we used to think and many recover to a remarkable degree.

These two together make up the principal varieties of what physicians call "coronary heart disease." And in spite of the improved outlook they are still responsible for a large number of deaths.

What I want to discuss is a recent report from the United States Public Health Service which found the death rates from coronary heart disease in different parts of the United States to be twice as high in some states as in others. For example, the lowest death rates among white men of all ages in 1950 were in New Mexico, Arkansas and Kentucky. The other states occupied positions in between. The differences were even greater for women.

This remarkable observation arouses tremendous curiosity as to the reasons for these geographic differences.

Actually, a good reason is still to be discovered, though possible explanations include differences in diet, exercise, hereditary factors, stress, and physical characteristics of the people in various parts of the country.

It might also be interesting to know whether there are large differences in smoking habits or in exposure to industrial fumes or to smog.

At the present time we can take our choice of possible reasons since it is pure guess work.

As the Public Health Service well knows, and states in its report, this is just the beginning. It will be necessary to analyze carefully whether there is a variation between residents of one part of a state and another. It will also be necessary to find out whether there are really any great differences in living habits in the smaller units.

It will probably take years to get the necessary information but when it is obtained we may well have an important lead to certain aspects of the origin and course of coronary heart disease.

Emotional Honesty Best Course In Family Crisis

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

Because a friend's kitchen clock was slow, Fred was nearly an hour late for supper. His father was angrily sarcastic. He said, "If a slow clock is the best alibi you can think of, don't bother with one."

The next day Fred told his mother he was thinking of running away. She told his father, who decided to handle the threat as a similar one of his own childhood had been handled. Calling Fred to him, he said, "I hear you're thinking of leaving home. Well, just let us know when you plan to go — and we'll help you pack your things."

The emotional dishonesty of this response to Fred's threat makes it a foolish one.

If a child runs away, we become frantic, not just with fear for his safety, but that we have failed him in some way. Were Fred to make good on his threat, the father who has pretended disinterest would pay for his falsehood in suffering.

If ever there's a time for emotional honesty from us, it's when a youngster tells us he's going to run away. It's the time for base-rock feeling put into words like this, "No, we aren't going to let you run away. It's a dangerous thing for a child to do. So we have to keep you here at home, not just for your sake, but for ours, too. We'd be miserable without you and want you right here with us."

The situation demands our true feeling because the child himself has expressed untrue feeling. Fred does not want to run away from home. If he wanted to, he would not warn us of his intention to do it, but would work out his getaway in secret. Fred's threat is really a disguised plea that we make home happier for him.

If, like his father, we allow his insincere threat to provoke double-talk from us, too, neither discovers anything true about the other. Though the child may not run away from us physically, we can remain as distant from him as though he had.

The answer lies in always speaking out the simple truth of our affectionate and responsible feeling for the child. What happens is that he instantly recognizes our reality — and responds to it with his own. Usually, he bursts into tears, crying out, "Why did you say I was lying about the clock yesterday? I WASN'T lying, daddy! It was the truth I told you . . . "

But he can't discard falseness until we have discarded it first.

THE FIVE YEAR-OLD Boy thought it was great to race his dad from the car to the house when they returned home from somewhere, and somehow dad never could win. Dad had just lost another race when the five-year-old turned to him with, "Dad, do you know why I won?"

"No," said the dad. "Why?"

"Because I ate an airplane stamp—that's why I go so fast."

THE THEATRE has nothing on a household that has three little boys with ultra dramatic talent. One of their favorite plays is "Romeo and Juliette."

The stage was the kitchen of the home of their grandparents and the balcony for Juliette was the kitchen table.

"Get up on the table, Jim," said the oldest of the three little boys, "you're going to be Juliette."

"I can't be Juliette," replied Jim, four years old.

"Why can't you?" questioned his older brother.

"Because I don't have my brown hair," said Jim

It was then explained to the grandparents that when he played Juliette he always wore a brown leather jacket with fringe on it over his head for the hair. But the older brother got some paper and cut out a wig of paper hair for Jim. When he had his hair Jim could act the part so he climbed up on the kitchen table and dramatically called out: "Romeo — my Romeo — where art thou?"

The oldest brother, as Romeo, came running over to the table and grabbed Jim romantically off the table and held him tightly.

"Pappy's coming," shouted the middle brother rushing in on the scene and with that gallant Romeo drew his sword and "killed" Pappy—who fell to the floor with a thump.—H.L.

President Attempts to Get Staff Out of Cubbyholes

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has taken steps to leave a valuable legacy to his successor. That's adequate office space in which to conduct the business of the White House.

As it is now, White House secretaries are jammed into tiny corners where they bark their elbows typing. Filing cabinets are located in washrooms. The President's aides occupy broom-closet space.

When the President wants to receive more than a delegation of five he has to do it in the back yard. If more than a dozen people are waiting for an appointment some have to stand outside. Many a city hall in the U.S. has a bigger and better press room than the one in the White House.

It has been accurately tagged "Club Claustrophobia."

Ike was irked at the poor office accommodations when he moved in four years ago but didn't want to complain. However, as soon as he was reelected, and it was clear that he wouldn't benefit personally, he set up the Advisory Commission on Presidential Office Space which is supposed to make recommendations to Congress by February.

The President won't benefit because it will take at least four years to unwind the red tape on such a project, and then actually build it. The Fine Arts Commission and a half-dozen other outfits are in on such an act. It's almost easier to amend the Constitution than to tamper with the White House. President Truman found that out with his back porch project.

What can be done to relieve the office space bind is pretty obvious. Everyone who has looked into the matter has come up with a similar solution. That's to tear down the grotesque old State Department building which is right next to the White House grounds and erect a modern office building.

What is needed, everyone agrees, is a building with facilities similar to those of the United Nations offices. It should contain several conference rooms where the Cabinet and National Security Council can meet, for example.

A room is needed where the President can meet with groups numbering more than 100 persons. Now, when he wants to address big delegations of mayors, state officials, or diplomats he has to go to a hotel to do it.

The new office should contain a couple of dining rooms for official entertaining by the President and for the general use of persons who have to work in the building. In the present setup there's a woeful lack of room for the elaborate TV equipment needed when the President or his assistants want to use that medium.

In a new building which was part of the White House grounds the personal security of the President would be a simpler problem. Now, for example, he must walk outside and across the street to get to his weekly press conferences.

The Secret Service puts pressure on the President to turn down many appointments to meet and address groups because it means leaving the grounds, with extra danger for him.

There has also been some thinking about what would be done with the west wing of the White House which was built in 1902 as a temporary addition and which now serves as the office space. It would be possible to turn this into a museum.

At present there is no room for all of the historical paintings, pieces of furniture and other objects of art which belong to the White House. A museum wing would make the Executive Mansion a more attractive sightseeing spot.

Ruth Millett Says—

It Takes Two to Make An Unhappy Marriage

Do you blame your husband for everything wrong with your marriage?

If you do, chances are you are lazy, unimaginative or downright smug.

Some wives find it much easier to blame a husband for a dull or unhappy marriage than to roll up their sleeves and go to work to turn a poor marrige into a better one.

It doesn't take much effort to decide a situation is hopeless. It takes a lot to pitch in and change a "hopeless" situation because you are determined not to let life defeat you.

Some wives just don't have enough imagination to see that a quarrelsome or indifferent husband is an unhappy man who probably needs his wife's understanding, admiration and devotion as much as she needs that kind of support from him.

So she nags him for not giving her what she expected from marriage, instead of trying doubly hard to fulfill his expectations of what marriage would be like.

Some wives are just too smug to admit even to themselves that they could be wrong about anything. They mark a husband down as wrong every time he dares to disagree with their ideas.

They are the women who keep telling themselves what "good wives" they have always been—even though their husbands wouldn't endorse that smug self-evaluation.

When a marriage goes sour rarely is it true that all the fault lies with one partner.

Any wife who isn't lazy or unimaginative or downright smug would admit to herself that some of the fault for her unhappy marriage must be hers.

And she would get busy trying to improve herself, instead of hopelessly wishing she could change her husband.

The Christmas Floats

Old Santa has a lot of elves
Who work and work and work themselves
To get all fixed up for the jaunt
The lists of things that children want,
They all get credit, people know,
That Santa couldn't even go
Without their help on Christmas Eve,
They fill his sleigh for him to leave,
They keep the reindeer nice and slick
And hitch them up for Old Saint Nick;
They get things ready while he goes
To every place in his red clothes,
To talk to kids, to wave his hand.
At every youngster in the land.
But there are others, I'm afraid,
Who help to make a gay parade
For children and for Santa Claus
Who work unpraised — so now we pause
Just to give a little note
Of praise for those who make a float,
Nobody knows, nobody cares
Just how much trouble now is theirs,
Sometimes the crowd is really rude
About a float a little crude,
They just admire a pretty one,
They think Christmas parades are fun,
But every float means time and work,
A duty someone didn't shirk
How many hours a few have spent
To make a float to represent
A club or church — takes money, too,
A thing of art like that to do.
No place is ever big enough
To house a float and all the stuff,
On one idea they decide
And every angle then is tried;
This doesn't work, material runs out,
They shake their heads at it in doubt,
More things they need, more things they buy
And other methods do they try.
Their problem mounts, so do the bills,
And they develop colds and chills,
Nobody wants to do their share,
A faithful few are always there
And sometimes from their pockets pay
For things when there's no other way.
Then suddenly the float is done,
Perhaps the club can say: "We won";
Or maybe not, the thanks is small,
Perhaps not even said at all;
The float is glory for a day
Is something you can't put away,
But seems that Santa really should
Give extra gifts to those so good,
For those who work at such a chore
Get only thanks, they should have more
And those who watch that long parade
Should know just how a float is made;
And if they have a bit of doubt
They should help make one and find out.
The elves get praised for what they do
Floatmakers come in that class, too.

Navy Fleet Will Get Big Carrier

WITH THE SIXTH U.S. FLEET OFF SARDINIA (AP)—Uncle Sam's Mediterranean Fleet, already the most powerful in the world, soon will be beefed up more.

The fleet's commander, Vice Adm. Charles R. "Cat" Brown, told a news conference aboard his flagship, the heavy cruiser Salem, that:

The 6th Fleet already is armed with Regulus guided missiles, which can give atomic antiaircraft protection against enemy planes as far as 30 miles.

America's most modern aircraft carriers, the Forrestal and the modernized Franklin D. Roosevelt will join the fleet in January as replacements for the less hard-hitting Coral Sea and Randolph.

There are plans to equip the reinforced Marine battalion which travels with the fleet with "Honest John" rockets, which can carry an atomic warhead.

"I am sitting on top of a volcano. Tomorrow could be my Pearl Harbor. I have to watch it all the time," Brown said

He expressed the belief that the presence of the 6th Fleet in the tense Mediterranean is a strong deterrent force for peace.

Brown also disclosed that after the threat of the Egyptian crisis to the Western Alliance, Allied cooperation is beginning to work more smoothly again and there has been a renewal of NATO sea exercises.

Brown said that the 6th fleet gave the United States flexible power in the Mediterranean which could be used with control to the degree needed in a local situation.

"If I had to, I could set up a perimeter and send in armed (land) convoys to evacuate American civilians," he said.

Protection of American civilians in the Mediterranean area is a 6th Fleet responsibility. Fleet personnel from the Gaza Strip in Palestine. At the last minute the local Egyptian commander agreed to allow the civilians to depart. Israeli troops captured Gaza and the area around it soon after.

The 6th Fleet is completely self-supporting and has no land base.

When the Forrestal and Franklin D. Roosevelt arrive, the fleet's air arm will be able to strike 1,400 miles from its carrier bases. At present the maximum range is 1,000 miles.

The fleet has been reinforced since the Egyptian fighting by the carrier Antietam and six destroyers — a hunter-killer force specializing in submarine destruction.

U. S. Navy leaders have made clear they believe submarines and mines constitute the greatest Russian naval threat.

The 6th Fleet already has increased its minesweeping potential.

25 YEARS OF GROWTH

The following items appeared earlier this year in the 25 Years Ago column of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital:

Victor Eisenstein, conducting a women's and men's wear business at 205 South Ohio, announced he was discontinuing that business to engage in other pursuits, while continuing to live in Sedalia.—25 Years Ago column of the February 9, 1956, Democrat edition.

Victor Eisenstein, who conducted a clothing store at 205 South Ohio, was made district manager for the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association of Omaha, Nebraska.—25 Years Ago column of the April 6, 1956, Democrat.

David Eisenstein, Present Manager

In 1931, twenty-five years ago this year, Victor Eisenstein founded this agency when he became area representative for two great companies—Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha. Our history has been one of continuous growth and progress, and today we are known to thousands of Central Missourians who are policyholders through this agency.

A review of our records reveals that during our first twenty-five years, as representatives of Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, we have paid $1,430,435.68 in benefits to policyholders and their beneficiaries in Sedalia and surrounding territory. For most of these people, benefit payments were received when they needed them most.

We salute the memory of our founder, Victor Eisenstein, who started this agency on the basic principles of good service and fair dealing. He made it a practice to know the needs of each family he served and to sell them the type of policy which would best answer those needs. The principles and objectives of this business have never changed . . . they will always be our guide in the conduct of this agency.

We salute, too, the men and women now engaged in the further building of this agency, who are responsible for its unprecedented growth to its present high peak. These men and women would welcome the opportunity to tell you of our insurance plans, and to serve your insurance needs.

US Marines Lose Battle To Friendly Thai Farmers

WHERE'S THE BEACH? Thai farmers swarm over the shore as a landing ship approaches for mock invasion by U.S. and Thai Marines during Operation Teamwork exercises.

By EDWARD R. KENNEDY
NEA Staff Correspondent

BANGKOK —(NEA)— The U.S. Marines lost the beach they were invading.

If this unusual news comes as a shock, understand it was a training exercise with Thai marines. But the Gung Ho boys never admit to even a training defeat. This one they can't deny. They had failed in G-2 estimates to evaluate the natural feeling and hospitality of the Thai people.

The Leathernecks lost the contested 1,000-yard strip of white sand 100 miles south of here to 20,000 friendly farm folks who swarmed over the area.

It was the culmination of a three-year joint U.S.-Thai Marine training program. The invasion exercise was to be agraduation for the Thais.

American Marines came from Okinawa and the United States to take part in the joint affair.

It went off like clockwork until the last demolition charge was fired simulating the last rocket strike on the target.

From out of the water waddled the amphibious troop carriers, hitting H-hour on the nose. And from behind restraining lines surged a sea of humanity. Thais, many of whom had walked 30 miles to see the show.

Invasion met hospitality head on.

The shouting Marines poured out of their vehicles and found themselves surrounded by civilians, laughing, smiling and shaking hands with hard bitten sergeants trying to organize units.

The people stepped into the problem. They offered to carry packs or give a hand with the guns. When a small boat couldn't make it over a bar the Thai civilians were there and pushed it in.

"There's nothing in the book about this," one Marine training officer remarked. Thai civilian observers were standing neck deep in the water helping his boys ashore.

Although the Bangkok press is currently on an anti-American binge the country people had a field day during Exercise "Teamwork." They all got on the team. What the maneuver lacked in military invasion art it made up for in a bonanza in Thai-American good will.

Col. Edward Dillion of the Fleet Marine Training Unit, who regulated the international program for the past three years, gave the six battalions of Thai troops their finest accolade.

"They're as good as U.S. Marines," said this veteran of 25 years in the corps.

The new Thai marine force has been reborn under the leadership of Commodore Pragang Philbulsonggram, son of the Prime Minister of Thailand, and is a key addition to the South East Asia Treaty Organization's grownig military capability. It is also a firm link in the friendship of our best friend in the Far East.

While the American Marines and their Thai counterparts swarmed in during the mock exercise in the land of "The King and I," the overwhelmingly friendly Thai people greeted them at the shore with shouts of "Dee Mock; Dee Mock," meaning "well done, well done."

The Marines were naturally grateful. But as one officer observed:

"The 'De Mock' sure took the 'Gung Ho' out of this one."

US Finishes Track Harvest, Faces Final Russian Surge

America Hopes Soviet Bogs in Fringe Events

Yanks' 463-390 Olympic Command Comes Under Fire in Final Week

By TED SMITS

MELBOURNE, Dec. 1 (AP)—U. S. Olympians, having dominated the track and field phase of the 1956 games with a briliant bunch of Yankee Doodle dandies, now must look to their swimmers and divers in the final run with Russia for the unofficial team championship.

It's going to be close. And the Yanks may not make it.

Despite a record-smashing 15 gold medals in men's track and field, where the Americans piled up 232 points, Uncle Sam entered the last week of Olympic competition with only a 463 to 390½ edge over Russia in the point standings.

Over-all, the United States had bagged 28 gold medals, to 18 by the Russians. But there isn't much hope of adding many more to that U. S. total outside of the swimming competition.

Swimming and diving is the last of the "blue-ribbon" events in the games. But there are a swarm of fringe sports to be decided, including gymnastics, and the Russians figure to make the most of it.

The main hope is swimming, and the Yanks gave signs of holding their own against Australia and Japan in today's finals by finishing one-two in the men's springboard diving event and adding a fourth to the gold medal in the men's 200-meter butterfly.

Russia almost beat the United States in the last games at Helsinki, just by sweeping the men's and women's gymnastics. These events have been cut down somewhat here, however, and Japan, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Sweden may help the American cause by cutting into the Russian medals.

Today was a great day for America, Australia, France, Ireland and the ninth consecutive crowd of 100,000 in the Melbourne Cricket Grounds, this time favored by a warm sun.

Bobby Morrow of the United States won his third gold medal of the games—tops for the men—by anchoring the American 440 meter relay team to victory in the world record time of 39.5.

Mildred McDaniel of the United States unexpectedly won the women's high jump and set a new world record of 1.76 meters, or 5 feet 9¼ inches to cap the fine all around performance by American girls.

The United States 1600 meter relay team with Charley Jenkins running his lap in a sparkling 45.4 won their event in 3:04.8.

Slender Ron Delaney, the Villanova student from Eire, battled his way out of the pack in the greatest 1500 meter field ever and took the metric mile in 3:41.2 for an Olympic record, the equivalent of a 3:59.5 mile. This was Eire's first track championship since 1932.

Australia's golden girl, Betty Cuthbert, joined Morrow as a triple gold medal winner by anchoring her nation's 400 meter relay team to victory in the world record time of 44.

Alain Mimoun, the little Frenchman, won his nation's first gold medal in capturing the classic marathon, finishing as fresh as he started and the vast crowd loved it. They even seemed to enjoy a baseball game between an American Army team and an all-star Australian team, won by the Americans 11-5. The announcer proudly said it was the biggest crowd ever to see a baseball game and he probably was right.

To cap things off, Bob Clotworthy won the men's springboard diving championship for the United States and his teammate, Bill Yorzyk, won the men's 200 meter butterfly event.

Clothworthy, Mountainside, N.J., won the men's springboard diving with Don Harper, Palo Alto, Calif., second and Glenn Whitten, Lakeland, Fla., fourth.

And of course, the rangy, slick American basketball team wound up the Olympic tournament by defeating Russia 89-55 and adding another victory to the American list.

Boxing and wrestling were disappointments for the U. S. Only light-heavyweight Jim Boyd of Rocky Mount, N. C., and heavyweight Pete Rademacher of Grandview, Wash., came off with gold medals—while Russia won the team boxing championship. The best Yank in wrestling was Dan Hodge of Norman, Okla. He managed a silver medal for a second in the middleweight division as Russia again took a team title.

Now the United States goes on the defensive. Ahead lie sports in which the Europeans excel and in most of which the United States will be lucky to pick up a few crumbs-fencing, shooting, gymnastics, greco-roman wrestling, yaching, and cycling in addition of course to swimming.

Middies Tie 7-7 With Army. Turn Down Bowl Bid

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 (AP)—Favored Navy, stunned by a ferocious Army defense, sent sophomore fullback Dick Dagampat for the fourth period touchdown that provided a 7-7 comeback tie with the Cadets today and led to a Cotton Bowl invitation which quickly was declined by the Middies.

Navy received an official invitation to meet Texas Christian in Dallas January 1 but turned it down in a dressing room announcement moments after the final gun. The indication was that Navy officials decided the team's performance was not bowl-worthy.

It was a fumble, one of several costly errors by the battling undergods, which launched Navy's late attack as third string end John Kanuch fell on a loose ball at the Cadet 27.

Dagampat, a 165 pounder from Los Angeles who shared game honors with Army senior Bob Kyasky, carried for five of the seven plays it took to score. Ned Oldham calmly kicked the tie—clinching point in his farewell contribution to Middie football.

Sooners Tumble Helpless Aggies With 53-0 Rout

STILLWATER, Okla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Oklahoma emphasizes its claim to a second straight national football title today, smashing its traditional rival Oklahoma A & M 53-0 for a new all-time victory string of 40 straight.

Sixteen Oklahoma Sooners played their last game completing three years of college football without tasting defeat. The Sooners beat the Aggies by the same score last year.

Today's Oklahoma victory watched by 38,000, set several other new records, and gave Clendon Thomas, who scored two touchdowns, 103 points for the season — tops nationally this year.

It also was the 116th straight game in which Oklahoma has scored.

The Sooners team, rated among the greatest in football history, set a new national rushing record of 391 yards a game, topping the old record of 378.3 set by Texas Mines in 1948.

Vikings Drub Hamm's Beer Team 70-52

The Missouri Valley Vikings in a "warm-up" game handed the Hamm's Beer cagers of Sedalia a 70-52 defeat Thursday night on the Valley court.

The factors of youth and unit play displayed by the Vikings offset the experience advantage of which the Hamm's have boasted. Typical of the present era of basketball, it was a case of Valley running faster, shooting more and being accurate as they built up their 18-point victory margin.

Grabbing an early lead the Vikings were never headed, and at one point in the third period the College aggregation enjoyed its largest spread of points having a 22-point lead. In the fourth stanza the Hamm's rallied together to cut the opponents advantage to eight points during one point of that period.

With five minutes left in the period the Hamm's late effort bogged down and the Vikings resumed their offensive punch with a lightning fast break during the waning minutes of play and increased the margin of victory.

Warsaw Wins 65-54 Friday At Houstonia

A well-balanced Warsaw High team centered its power against a host Houstonia squad Friday night and reaped a 65-51 basketball victory, its fourth this season. Houstonia's volleyballers, however, spelled out tragedy to the Warsaw girls and dealt the visitors a 48-10 trouncing.

The cage tilt opened with Houstonia gaining a slim lead in the first quarter, 18-16. But this was the last taste of blood for Houstonia as Warsaw began a slow buildup in momentum, scooting into the lead at the halfway mark 34-33. Warsaw added to its lead in the third period, 11-8, and climaxed the surge with a 20-10 final quarter command.

Walker of Houstonia topped the evening's scoring with 22 points. Teammates Harris and Pummill contributed ten each.

Warsaw's victory was achieved from a four-pronged attack. Brady collected 20 points, Hedrick 15, Kluter 14, and Lear 12.

Hughesville Loses, 47-43, To Cole Camp

Cole Camp High's cagers staged a desperation rally in the final quarter against Hughesville Friday night to gain a 47-43 victory in a see-saw game on their home court.

Hughesville opened quickly with a 12-8 first-quarter attack but was trimmed 18-13 by the hosts in the second period. Behind 26-25 at the halftime, Hughesville broke loose again and blanked the Cole Campers in the third stanza, 10-0. That, however, only served to light the fuse to a final quarter Cole Camp explosion as the hosts surged ahead to victory on the strength of a 21-8 rally.

Ragland of Cole Camp grabbed scoring honors with 19 points while teammate Otten assisted with 12. Hughesville's Langston led his team with 16 and Payne tallied 12.

Bosseler Leads Miami To Win Over Florida

GAINESVILLE Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Don Bosseler, bread and butter fullback of the unbeaten Miami Hurricanes, powered two touchdowns drives and scooted 73 yards for a third as he led Miami to a 20-7 football victory over Florida today.

Bosseler ran from left halfback as well as fullback in the first scoring drive of 42 yards. He operated solely from his regular fullback slot in the second drive and ran the entire 17 yards himself on four jaunts up the middle.

Late in the game from the Miami 27 he smashed over guard, cut to the sidelines and outran Florida's speedy Jim Rountree to the goal.

Tigers Gain 15-13 Victory Over Kansas

Safety in Last Minute Gives MU's Faurot 101st Win

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 1 (AP)—Senior tackle Chuck Mehrer crashed into the Kansas backfield to throw halfback Bobby Robinson for a safety with 39 seconds remaining that gave the Missouri Tigers a 15 to 13 victory over the Jayhawks in the season football finale for the old rivals today.

Missouri, observing its homecoming before an estimated 28,000 in clear, cool weather, had blundered frequently before Kansas helped the Tigers present retiring coach Don Faurot his 101st victory in 19 seasons here.

Twice the Tigers had to come from behind in the bitterly contested game, the last time on a 14 yard pass from substitute quarterback Dave Doane to end Larry Plumb that tied it at 13 all with 3 minutes and 12 seconds remaining in the game.

Going all out for a victory, Kansas gambled on a 4th down play with less than 2 minutes and lost the ball on downs on their own 32 yard line. The Jayhawks got out of that one when quarterback Wally Strauch intercepted Stub Clemensen's first down pass in the end zone.

Tiger linemen smothered Strauch for a 16 yard loss back to the Kansas 4. On the next play Robinson went wide and Mehrer hit him in the end zone.

Missouri, which lost a touchdown bid by fumbling after reaching the Kansas 3 yard line in the first quarter, lost a chance of deciding the contest after its second touchdown when the pass from center was bad on the conversion attempt and Rash did not have an opportunity to kick the ball.

It was a typical ending in the heated rivalry that dates back to 1891. Two players, one from each team, were ejected for getting too rough in the last minutes, and the north goal post came down with time for one more Missouri play remaining.

Missouri	0	0	7	8	—15
Kansas	0	6	0	7	—13

Missouri scoring—Touchdowns: Doane (4, rush); Plumb (14 yard pass from Doane). Safety: Robinson tacked in the end zone by Mehrer. Conversions: Rash 1.

Kansas scoring: Touchdowns: McCue (22, pass from Strauch); Letcavits (4, pass from Strauch). Conversions: Strauch, 1.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

THERE were tears in his eyes from happiness. There was a lump in his throat. There was a swelling in his heart from pride. That was Coach Don Faurot Saturday afternoon as his last college football team came through to win for him over the oldest rival of the University of Missouri. Yes, Coach Faurot was proud when the game against the University of Kansas Jayhawks was over. His team, the M. U. Tigers had won a hard fought scrap by a scant 15-13.

Faurot, who bows out as football coach of Missouri at the close of the season, was no more proud of the Tigers than some 30-thousand Missouri fans. They played football Saturday, played the best game of the season. They were really working for this victory and put everything they had left into the game to win.

Although scored upon in the final minutes of play in the first half, when the second half began they fought harder than they had in any previous game this season. When the Tigers crossed the goal line and kicked the extra point to gain a 7-6 lead, the stands went wild.

Then K. U. came back to punch across their second touchdown, kicked the goal and led 13-7. This didn't dampen their hopes and the fight was on again, the Tigers knotting it up and failing in the conversion.

With the Jayhawks having the ball down in their territory the Tigers weren't to let them get down the field, and plowed in to cause the Kansas to fall back to the four-yard strip. Then "Chuck" Mehrer went crashing through to pin Jayhawk halfback Bobby Robinson behind the goal for a safety and two points—the necessary margin to win.

It was a climactic end to a successful career for the Tiger tutor who won 101 games, lost 79 and tied 10. His over-all coaching stint closed with a 65-percent win record, which included a combined total of games of his Kirksville Teachers teams from 1926 to 1934 and with M. U. from 1935 to 1956 for 164 wins, 88 losses and 13 ties.

Tigers In Cage Opener

Smith-Cotton Plays Opener Wednesday In Jeff City Meet Against Fulton

Smith-Cotton high school Tigers open their basketball season on Dec. 5, when they play in the Second Annual Invitational Tournament sponsored by the Jefferson City Senior and Junior College. The tournament is to be played in the Simonsen gymnasium.

Seven teams are entered in the tournament: the teams are listed in the bracket from top to bottom, Moberly vs. Jefferson City at 9 p.m. Wednesday; Fulton vs. Smith-Cotton at 7:30 p.m.; Rolla vs. Helias, playing at 6:30 p. m. Hannibal drew a bye in the bottom bracket.

Officials for the tournament will be Francis Huss and Matt Sullivan.

Coach Howard Glavin in discussing the tournament said he was carrying practically his entire cage group to tournament. He has yet to divide the squad into a Varsity or starting lineup along with substitutes for the Varsity squad.

With little information regarding other teams at hand at the present time, Coach Glavin is confident the Tigers will be able to take care of themselves on the court. "They'll lose some games, but I anticipate their winning their share of them. The team doesn't have height, but it has at the present time a desire to play basketball and a desire to try, and that's something.

"Too many have referred to last year's team which went to the State Tournament in comparison with this year's team," Glavin said. "Although we actually don't have but one starter back from last year, our chances at present do not appear too bad.

"A lot depends on what the other schools have in height but a fast breaking team sometimes can make up the difference, especially if they get to hitting the loop for baskets," he remarked.

The tournament will be a good test for the Sedalians.

Dusek, Myers In Return Mat Bout for Title

TUESDAY'S WRESTLING CARD

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT
MEN'S FEATURE MATCH

Sonny Myers, 226, St. Joseph, Mo., vs. Joe Dusek, 233, Omaha. Best two out of three falls, or a 60-minute time limit for the Missouri state championship.

GIRLS' TAG TEAM MATCH

OPENING MATCH

Jim Dobie, 226, Independence, Mo., vs. Jim Lake, 218, St. Joseph, Mo. One fall, or a 30-minute time limit.

Matches sponsored by Pettis American Legion post.

A return championship match between Joe Dusek and Sonny Myers, plus the season debut of four of the nation's leading Negro girl wrestlers, will spotlight Tuesday night's well-balanced mat card in the Sedalia Armory.

The first half of the big double main event brings two top Negro girls' tag teams into action. Ethel Johnson and Lulu Mae Provo will join forces to tackle Babs Wingo and Marva Scott. The Negro girls have been nicknamed the "daredevils of wrestling" because of their wide-open, action-packed matches. They seem to toss caution to the wind in their determination to please the fans.

Finale of the night is the long-awaited return battle pitting Myers against Joe Dusek with the American Legion trophy, symbolic of state heavyweight supremacy, as the prize plum for the victor. The two rivals collided here last October with Dusek retaining the championship and trophy on a technicality. This fact irked both Myers and his many ardent Sedalia area supporters.

All championship matches are scheduled for the best two out of three falls and a champion must be defeated in two falls to lose the title. A champion also cannot be disqualified out of his title. In the October match Myers posted one fall but the time ran out before either wrestler could register a second fall. Myers actually won the match but Dusek took home the mat "bacon."

The Negro girls return to the Armory after a year's absence is expected to attract widespread attention for they proved to be popular attractions here last season. Among the Negro feminine stars Miss Wingo and Miss Johnson are rated as the top two and they will be serving as the captains for the rival tag teams.

An all-Missouri clash brings together Gentleman Jim Dobie and Jim Lake in the opener which gets under way at 8:15. The Armory doors and box office open tonight at 7:15.

Matchmaker Karras will step out of ring retirement to referee the Dobie-Lake match after receiving a request to do so by both contestants. Gust was an outstanding wrestler in the Middle West about two decades ago. When he retired from the ring he became a matchmaker and promoter and now is the dean of Missouri's wrestling matchmakers. He started his 26th season last September.

Lulu Mae teams up with Ethel Johnson and Marva has Babs Wingo as her partner. The team match is part of a double main event which also includes a state title clash between Joe Dusek and Sonny Myers.

WAFB Cagers Are Unbeaten In Six Games

The 340th Bomb Wing Basketball team at Whiteman Air Force Base is currently boasting an undefeated season with a six game winning streak and the team's performances have all the appearances of a top Air Force aggregation with an undefeated season in the offing.

Coaching the team this year is a former Long Island University player and currently a member of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball Officials Association, Major Frank Judd. Major Judd has much to be thankful for in a team averaging 6' 1" with all the players having either college or semi-pro experience.

Offensively, the team, averaging 75 points a game, is led by A-1c Buddy Tarver and A-1c Vernon Moore, both former semi-pro players. Working the backboards and handling the bulk of the defense are 1st Lt. Jack Anderson, A-2c Cloyd Dodson and A-2c Joe Louis. Anderson played three years of varsity ball at Annapolis while picking up two "N"s in football at the Naval Academy. Dodson and Louis played semi-pro ball around the Philadelphia area. In Whiteman's first six games these boys have "allowed" their opponents only 44 points per game.

This well rounded outfit is backed up by equally fine players, A-2c L. Coleman, A-3c P. Coffin, A-3c C. Cox, A-1c Ben Williams and S-Sgt. L. Storey. Storey is a former Oklahoma University cager while the others have semi-pro and industrial league experience.

Joining the squad Dec. 1 is a 6-foot-5 former Washburn University, Kansas, varsity man, Lt. William Washburn, whose experience and height will add much to the team, both offensively and defensively.

On Nov. 23, in Whiteman's new $218,000 field house, the team defeated the North Kansas City, Mo. League Champions, the Avondale Angles, with Tarver dumping in 31 points while Dodson "gave" their high scorer, Hal Burgess, two field goals.

Last year, without a gymnasium for regular practice, no regular means of transportation and wing operational commitments of team members, the team managed to maintain a nucleus of players that established a mediocre 11-13 record, averaging 63 points per contest. Moore and Dodson were high scorers last year with 24 and 17 point averages respectively.

Major Judd, who also coached the Columbia University College of Pharmacy for two years and the Randolph Field team in 1951, said, "This outfit is one of the best I've handled. They're big, fast and aggressive and we are headed for the USAF World-Wide Tournament after we sharpen up on local opposition."

S-Sgt. Ettore Angelelli, Athletic Section NCOIC, is inviting all Air Force and civilian teams with open dates to write him care of Special Services Office, Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo.

The 340th Bomb Wing at Whiteman is an Eighth Air Force Installation of the Strategic Air Command.

Tipton Subdues Gremlins

SH Loses Varsity Tilt 75-49 Friday, 'B's' Routed 44-20; To Play Here Today

Sacred Heart absorbed its second cage loss of the season Friday night when its perennial rival Tipton hammered the Gremlins to defeat, 75-49. Tipton's "B" team cagers followed pattern by brushing off the Sacred Heart "B's" in similar manner, 44 - 20. Despite the loss, Sacred Heart maintains a 5-2 record to date.

The varsity Tiptonites swept through their contest with ease, commanding each quarter by 20-13, 18-14, 13-10 and 23-12 respectively. Tipton domination also held during the "B" game with the hosts snatching a 13-2 first-quarter lead and limiting the Gremlins 18-1 in the second period. A Johnny-come-lately Sacred Heart rally in the final two quarters, 9-9 and 8-4, failed to budge the unyielding Tipton "B's".

Tipton's K. Hartman led the Varsity scoring with 23 points while teammate Joe Hartman netted 19. Twins Mark and Marvin Mettler were the Sacred Heart weapons with Mark tallying 19 and Marvin adding ten. The Grems' Don Ressel bolstered his team with nine points.

"B" game honors went to Rowles of Tipton who produced ten points, followed by Sacred Heart's Edwards and Franken with seven each.

Sacred Heart will intercept Helias of Jefferson City in a basketball meeting here at 1:30 this afternoon.

Miss Karen Crosslin

Choose Karen Crosslin Job's Daughters' Queen

Miss Karen Crosslin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crosslin, was chosen as queen of Job's Daughters ball which was held at the Pla-Mor in Kansas City on Thanksgiving evening.

Each Bethel in the Kansas City area sent a queen contestant, and from the ten from Missouri and ten from Kansas the queen was chosen on the basis of beauty and personality.

The floor was cleared while all queens and their escorts entered the ball room. Two attendants were chosen to escort the queen to the platform.

Ruth Mary Leavitt, supreme guardian of the International Order of Job's Daughters, welcomed all of the girls and told of her future trip to the Philippines to institute a new Bethel.

Karen, who is a freshman at Central Missouri State College, was crowned with a flower covered crown and was presented a gold heart shaped locket on which was engraved "J.D. Queen-1956."

Karen and her escort, George Deuel, Fulton, a senior at Missouri University, Columbia, led the grand march in which about 2,500 people participated.

This is the third year for this ball and it has been voted to have this as an annual get-together for all Job's Daughters of this area.

Whitehead's Book Is About FBI Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—The secret of this country's A - bomb experiments was so closely guarded in the government during World War II that even the FBI first learned of it through the Communists.

Don Whitehead, twice a Pulitzer prize winner as an Associated Press reporter, describes the discovery in a new book, "The FBI Story," published today by Random House.

Whitehead spent eight months preparing the book, with the FBI's complete cooperation and with access to FBI files previously closed to the public.

He traces the Federal Bureau of Investigation's growth from the day in 1908 that President Theodore Roosevelt created it to investigate western land grabs and eastern trusts.

Much of the book is devoted to the FBI's continuing battle against communism. It tells how J. Edgar Hoover, then a young attorney in the Department of Justice, first spotted communism not as a harmless political theory but as a world conspiracy designed to infiltrate and take over other governments.

Whitehead tells for the first time how President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1936, ordered a continuing investigation of communism and its influence in this country, although the United States and Soviet Russia were later to become allies in World War II.

It was as a result of this that the FBI learned from one of its counterespionage operatives in a California laboratory that the Reds were aware that the United States was working on an atom bomb.

Roosevelt's order to the FBI, kept secret at the time and since, resulted in widespread attacks on the FBI and its work, both prior to World War II and after, when the Truman administration's loyalty drive on Reds in government was in full swing.

Whitehead traces the FBI's work in the postwar spy cases, from the day it first was discovered that A-bomb secrets had been sent to Russia, through the arrests of Klaus Fuchs, the British scientist; Harry Gold and David Greenglass, key figures in the network; and finally to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, who were executed amid violent demonstrations engineered by Reds and fellow travelers.

Hoover, in a foreword to the book, says:

"The acts of the subversive, particularly the 'dyed-in-the-wool' Communist, call for increased vigilance. The security of our country has suffered because too many of our people were 'hoodwinked' by the propaganda which claimed that the Communist party was a political party like the Democratic or Republican party."

Don't try to shine up that old tin pie pan. A dull pan gives a better baked bottom crust and a more evenly browned crisp top crust than a shiny pan.

'Quality Doesn't Just Happen'—

Mathieson Traces Start and Development Of Town-Country Shoes in Community

"Quality just doesn't happen; it is not something you can turn on and off like a faucet," declared C. W. Mathieson, executive vice president and treasurer of Town and Country Shoes, Inc., speaking before the Sedalia Kiwanis club.

"Quality, or plus value, is the end product of men, ideas and effort conceived and expended over a period of time."

On this firm foundation has been built one of Sedalia's most successful manufacturing establishment which had its inception in the spring of 1943 in a modern one-story building at 110 North Missouri. Since that time Town and Country has played a stellar part in the economic and social life of Sedalia.

Mathieson pointed out that beginning with less than a dozen employees, Town and Country has shown a steady and uninterrupted growth. The original factory which occupies some 12,000 square feet of floor space has been added to and enlarged. Today the main factory occupies 22,000 square feet of floor space. In addition, the Jerry Brown building has been acquired and an addition built thereon. The old ice plant building at Main and Missouri has been acquired and rehabilitated, and warehouse and manufacturing buildings have also been leased on South Highway 65 and East Main.

"From a beginning of 12,000 square feet of floor space," Mathieson emphasized, "our operations in Sedalia today have grown about five times, until today 63,000 square feet is used; and very shortly ground will be broken for the addition of administrative offices on North Missouri."

Continuing, the speaker said:

"We pride ourselves on making one of the outstanding shoe values in America today. Nothing but the very finest of materials are used in Town and Country shoes. There are instances where we may find competitive lines using as good materials as those used in Town and Country's, but we have yet to find any better materials being used. Furthermore, to our knowledge there is no line of shoes competitive retailwise that contains all of the quality features in sum total which are standard specifications for Town and Country shoes.

"Just what is quality? You and I have a very good idea of what the term stands for, but, none the less, I referred to Webster's dictionary for a definition. It was enlightening to find under one definition two cohesive explanations. Webster defines quality on the one hand as a distinctive trait, power, capacity, or virtue; on the other hand, as a characteristic mark or trait of a thing. The definition, distinctive trait, power, capacity or virtue, refers to qualities that can be applied to a person or group of people or an organization, whereas, 'a characteristic mark or trait of a thing,' is a quality that applies to an object, for example shoes. The more we think this through, the more definite it becomes that the two characteristics of quality as defined are related one to the other.

"For example, it takes good people to make good shoes; to make good shoes it takes good people.

"Basically in any successful organization—retail or manufacturing—there must be a working combination of people with imagination and a driving desire to create. To get results there must be present the ability to produce, the ability to purchase or buy advantageously, the ability to sell, the ability to merchandise, and above all, the ability to coordinate all of these functions.

"Stated in capsule form, there must be organization.

"For the past 13 years since Town and Country's inception definite progress has been made step by step in improving the quality (the leathers, materials, workmanship) of Town and Country shoes. And, as our shoes have become better known and more widely distributed, so, too, has our company grown in personnel and strength. Looking at the records, we find that our shipments of 1953 totaled 1,200,000 pairs of shoes. In 1954 we shipped 1,488,000 pairs of shoes. In 1955 our shipments totaled 1,561,000 pairs. This fiscal year—through Oct. 30—we have shipped 2,042,804 pairs, which reflects a gain of exactly 30 per cent over the previous 12 months of 1955. Furthermore, this represents a gain in shipments of 70 per cent for the last three-year period. I would like to add that this is a unique record in the U.S. shoe industry today.

"Total employment in our four factories in this short span of three years will have increased from 900 to 1,500 employees. During this same period our factory payrolls will have increased from $2,710,000 to $4,800,000.

Stop to consider, if you will, that as production in pairs has shown an increase of 70 per cent, the number of employees has increased 50 per cent, and payrolls 77 per cent. Among other things it shows that 50 per cent more people are making 77 per cent more wages, which is a very healthy condition.

"As production has gone up year after year, overhead has come down, and these economies have been plowed back and have been passed on to the consumer in a better value, to the retailer in a higher mark-up, and to our employees in higher wages and better working conditions.

"We have always worked on a very close margin of profit, but several years ago when production was forging ahead and we had completed two very good months' operation, the outlook appeared bright, and we were showing earnings in excess of what we consider a normal margin of profit. Mr. Lipscomb, the president of our company, was in Sedalia and made the statement that he would like to further improve the quality of our shoes. I suggested adding what is known as a leather heel seat to our shoes, which would cost five cents a pair. As an alternate I suggested that we grade up our upper leather, which would cost us eight cents. We had about five cents a pair to plow back into quality. We debated the matter momentarily, however, and then decided to go ahead and add the sewed-in leather heel seat and also grade up our upper leather. At the time we were producing 2,400 pairs of shoes daily. I might add here that this expenditure of 13 cents a pair roughly amounted to $312 a day or $75,000 a year. Many companies would not have taken this step, but we did, and this has always been a policy of our company, to keep plowing back earnings into better value all down the line. Before the year was out, our sales were up 3,600 pairs. The fact that we had added these two quality items may not have accounted entirely for this increase, but the fact that we had constantly been doing these things in many other ways had an accumulative effect that resulted in increased sales.

"In an atmosphere such as this it meant increased sales—increased production—higher wages for our employees.

"And in an atmosphere such as this it is only logical that the company should attract a better type of employee. Greater volume of sales has resulted not only in higher hourly earnings, but also in steady year-round employment, and, above all, happy, highly-skilled operators.

"In Sedalia today we have 500 employees, and our annual payroll here this year will be right at one and three-quarter million dollars. Plans are now completed for the building by the Dean Construction Co. of a new administration building which will be a credit to any town.

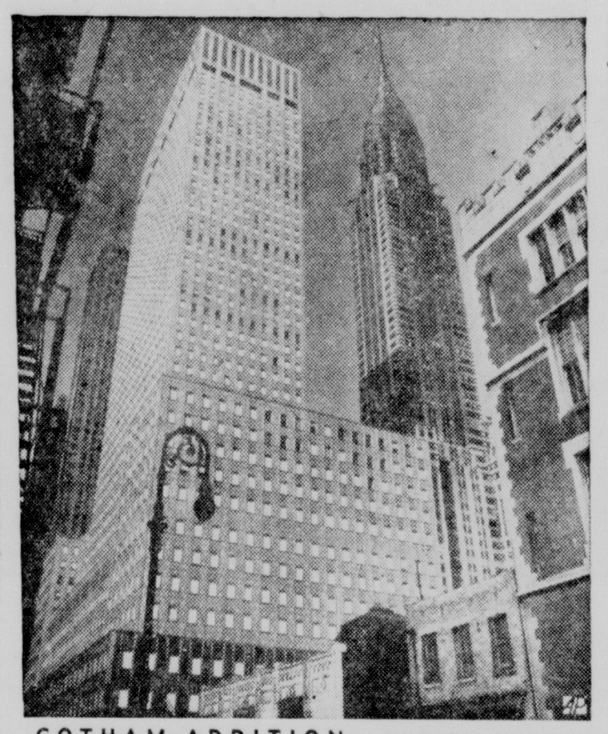

"In the past 13 years Sedalia, our town, has grown and developed in a remarkable way. There have been many subdivisions developed; new areas have been incorporated in the city limits, our streets have been greatly improved and parking meters installed. Today we take for granted a modern - equipped fire department. Stores and store fronts have been modernized, new churches have been built, hundreds of families have moved into town, and new industry has come in. Bank deposits have increased many, many fold.

"And, we at Town and Country are proud and happy over the part our company has taken in the growth of Sedalia. We feel that we are on the threshold of a great future expansion in this area and Sedalia, strategically located as it is, will continue to grow and expand and develop in the immediate years ahead of us.

"Our corporate office is in Sedalia. All of our buying, our accounts receivable, accounts payable, all of our production planning, all of our payroll work for the entire company's operation, is done here. This year we have spent over $100,000 for a new warehouse addition, and very shortly another $100,000 will be spent for the new administration building.

"We plan to produce more shoes in Sedalia next year.

"We plan to continue to grow with Sedalia."

GOTHAM ADDITION — A towering newcomer to the midtown Manhattan scene is the 45-story stainless steel Socony Mobil building. In right background is Chrysler building.

Mrs. Glen Poppinga

Miss Charlene Frizell Exchanges Vows With Charles Glen Poppinga

Miss Agnes Charlene Frizell, 215 East Fifth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kearn, Green Ridge, exchanged vows with Charles Glen Poppinga, Green Ridge, son of H. L. Poppinga, Malta Bend, and Mrs. Don Griffith, Garvin, Minnesota, in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. J. T. Nolan at nine o'clock the morning of November 10 at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Two bouquets of white and pink chrysanthemums were on either side of the altar and a palm was placed at the foot of the altar on each side.

Mrs. John Seifner, Jr., organist, played "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "Panis Angelicus." She also accompanied the St. Patrick's Choir.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, W. R. Kearn, the bride wore a two piece street length beige faille suit. The fitted jacket was complimented by flat bows in the front and back at the waistline and a bow on the collar, and by three-quarter length sleeves with winged cuffs. The skirt was full. She wore navy accessories and carried a prayerbook which was covered with white carnations centered with red rosebuds. White satin streamers fell from the prayerbook.

Mrs. Stanley Ulmer, friend of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a boxy teal blue wool suit with black accessories, and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Clarice Mettler, friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. Her two piece fitted suit was pink and was worn with brown accessories. She also carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Stanley Ulmer, friend of the couple, served as best man while Ralph Dove, another friend, served as groomsman. Ushers were Charles Brownfield and Jessie Brownfield, Jr., cousins of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride was attired in a two piece black faille suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

A reception was held for the couple from two til four at Dan's Pioneer Room for 40 guests. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake, baked by the bridegroom's aunt, decorated in white with a miniature bride and groom on top. The table was covered with an heirloom linen and lace tablecloth which belonged to the bride's great-great aunt. The cake was encircled with greenery and complimented by pink bud vases holding pink rosebuds. Miss Esther Kaiser, Miss Virginia Allen and Miss Carol Ann Templeton served. Miss Joella Brereton was in charge of the gifts.

The couple left immediately after the reception for a wedding trip to Minnesota and other northern states. The bride wore a two piece wool knit suit for traveling and a corsage of white carnations centered with red rosebuds.

The couple returned November 16 and is now residing at 215 East Fifth.

The bride is a graduate of the Green Ridge High School, class of 1953. She is employed in the advertising department of the Sedalia Democrat.

The bridegroom, a graduate of the Tracy (Minn.) High School, served four years in the Navy, receiving his discharge in February, 1956. He is an apprentice electrician at Queen City Electric Company.

Out of town guests included the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Cecil Paulsen, Chicago, Ill., who was accompanied by Mrs. Richard Mohler; his cousin, Mrs. Marjorie Paxton, Los Angeles, Calif., and the bride's great aunt, Mrs. Alice E. Mulvehill, St. Joseph.

Your Wardrobe
by Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

We are all well launched into our Christmas shopping now and there are a few things certainly worth consideration. There is a fabulous assortment of dusters and robes this season and although many of them look impractical they are the exact opposite. Pastel nylon tricot, many of them with dainty flowers beautifully quilted are practical as well as beautiful. Nylon chiffon either in solid colors or pastel florals, too are exquisite. Some are fitted and they truly would be appreciated by many. Corduroy in all colors are being shown and they are warm as well as pretty. Of course there are quilted cotton dusters as well as just drip dry cotton ones. Most of the garments I have just mentioned can be tossed in your machine and need little or no ironing. Beautiful gown and robe sets from cotton to nylon too are available. Nylon gowns of forty denier that are styled to fit as a dress with sheer full robes are exquisite in all pastels as well as the ever loved black. White, pink and sparkling green nylon gown and robe sets trimmed in fine alecon lace in ecru are perfect for the winter bride. A new fabric in cotton, dacron and nylon is being shown in less expensive sets and of course looks like a gift should—yet as practical as grandma's gown. Which reminds me there are some adorable granny gowns being shown in cotton.

Enabling Act Is Much-Needed---

Future of State's Community Recreation Looks Bright---But There's Big 'IF' to It

By Leslie G. Kennon
Missouri Division of Resources and Development

The future for Missouri's cities and towns in community recreation appears bright — but there's a big "if" attached, Robert L. Black, head of the community recreation section of the Missouri Division of Resources and Development, said today.

"The big 'if', " he said, "is whether the Legislature passes the much-needed Recreation Enabling Act."

The Recreation Enabling Act would do many things for Missouri's community recreation picture. It would allow schools, cities and counties to pool their funds for recreations; allow, upon vote by the people, a two-mill tax for recreational purposes (no immediate tax would be realized from passage by the bill) and it would allow establishment of a recreation board or commission in each town, with administrative powers of its own.

"Passage of this bill," commented Black, "would mean every city of 5,000 or more would have a full time recreation department — similar to those already established in surrounding states."

Despite this, however, Missouri has realized a slow, but steady growth in the field of community recreation. In 1950, there were eight full time recreational departments. Now, there are 15.

All of the cities of 25,000 or more population have full time departments; but in cities 10,000 to 25,000 only three of our 19 have them and only three of the 24 cities of 5,000 to 10,000 population have full time recreation personnel.

Nevertheless, Black pointed out, great strides have been taken in the past five years.

The Missouri Recreation Workshop has held one week sessions annually for recreational leaders at the Lake of the Ozarks State Park.

There has been a terrific growth in organized group camping which Black attributed to "social organizations and the State Park Board's placing more emphasis on organized camping."

There has been a continual growth of school camping in and around St. Louis, and Kansas City has an "excellent camping program" in Swope Park for its aged and handicapped.

Every two years, Black's section issues a new camp directory, showing location, services, types, etc. and these are made available free to interested persons.

Also available free is a report instructing communities without recreation laws on how to organize a "Recreation Council" to serve as a stop-gap until laws are passed.

Today, Black said, there are 18 coordinated state agencies serving on the Missouri State Inter-Agency Committee on Recreation. A free booklet issued by them shows what they can do to help communities. These agencies are: Central State College, Warrensburg; Department of Education; Division of Welfare; Lincoln University, Jefferson City; Missouri Conservation Commission; Missouri Division of Resources and Development; Missouri State Highway Commission; Missouri State Highway Patrol; Missouri State Library; Missouri State Park Board; Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, Kirksville; Northwest Missouri State College, Maryville; Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau; Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield; State Department of Corrections; Division of Health; State Historical Society of Missouri and the University of Missouri.

The National Recreation Association held its 36th National Recreation Congress in St. Louis in 1954 and the Midwest Recreation Conference (eight central states) held a conference in Kansas City in 1951 and is coming to St. Louis in April, 1957.

In addition, the First Governor's Recreation Conference, held Dec. 1-2, 1955, drew representatives of 61 Missouri communities and a program of more than 100 leaders in the field.

Black cited the growth and improvements of Missouri's recreation as resulting from community alertness in those cities showing progress and work by various state and national agencies, such as the National Recreation Association; the American Camping Association (which retains its eastern headquarters in St. Louis and its western division headquarters in Kansas City); the Missouri Recreation Association; the Missouri Recreation and Park Society; the Missouri Council on Children and Youth and the Missouri Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"In addition," Black said, "industrial recreation has reached a new high. Many of Missouri's larger industries now have a full time recreation director and aggressive recreation programs. There is also a great deal of cooperation between industries and communities in local recreation programming."

"The paramount responsibility for recreation", warned Black, "rests with the local community where initiative, autonomy and primary obligation for recreation service should remain."

"Who will see that the community assumes this responsibility for recreation? The citizens themselves must do it. Merely expressing the individual wish for better recreation service is not enough. The citizen must take action."

"Recreation today," he concludes, "is recognized as an important part of every day living. It takes its place with education, health and religion and works as an essential process molding individual personalities and creating abundant community living."

Business Faces Big Questions At Year's End

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business starts the final sprint of the year with three big question marks.

Will shoppers come through as hoped and make this the biggest Christmas season for the stores which have large stocks on hand?

Will industry go ahead with ever larger expansion plans and, if so, where will the money come from?

And the biggest question of all: will some trigger-happy nation start shooting?

There's little business men or their customers can do about the third one but wait and see how international affairs work out.

But the first two find the consumer in the middle.

On one hand he is being urged by the banks and other financial institutions to save more money so that they will have more to lend to expanding business and thus end the tight money squeeze.

On the other hand the individual is being urged to spend freely to keep all the consumer goods industries and the merchants happy. You have only to look at the advertising in your newspaper to see that a record drive is on to coax dollars out of your pocket.

But on the other hand the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York in its December survey out today says hopefully: "Thrift has become respectable again." It notes the clamor of industry for more funds to finance its grandiose expansion schemes and says that only through savings can this demand be met.

The pressing need for more capital also runs like a thread through all the meetings this week in Florida of the Investment Bankers Assn. of America. Industries saying they must have more growth funds include steel, atomic energy, railroads, electric utilities.

There are doubts in some quarters that industrial expansion will continue at the remarkable rate it set this year. They note as weakening incentives for such investment the rising costs of doing business and what they see as the slowdown in the gains in productivity (amount of goods and services turned out per man hour of labor). Together these forces are narrowing profit margins. Economists are watching consumer demand closely.

The question is whether the consumers will buy all the goods to be made in projected plants.

Music Based on Classics—

Helen G. Steele Club Hears Program 'Twice Told Tunes"

The Helen G. Steele Music Club met Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 2 p.m. at which time Mrs. E. F. Yancey, life president, welcomed the members and guests.

Mrs. George Lovercamp told of the participation of the club in the "Know Your America Week" parade. Attractive posters depicting, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," made by Mrs. William Klang and Mrs. Leo J. Harned, were displayed and, in keeping with the patriotic theme, Mrs. Lovercamp led the group in the pledge of allegiance and singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. Paul Berthouex was accompanist.

Mrs. D. P. Dyer gave a financial report of the need for the beautification of the club house grounds.

Mrs. James Atkinson reminded the members of the Christmas tea which will be held Dec. 12 for members only.

Mrs. Al Miles, program chairman, presented Mrs. C. C. DeLozier, chairman of the day, who announced that the theme of the program was "Twice Told Tunes" with the popular two piano team, Miss Mabel DeWitt and Miss Edythe Ross, playing the tunes.

Mrs. DeLozier told of how the people of the 20th Century were always in search of labor-saving devices and the modern housewife, instead of toiling long hours cooking as her grandmother did, merely goes to the super market now and selects from the shelves mixes that in a few moments, with little effort, produce delicious pies, cakes and other foods. She went on to say that modern song writers are following the same trend. They select a lovely melody by one of the old masters, change its rhythm sometimes and dress the tune in a modern style.

Many people deplore this looting of the classics, but there is this to be said in its favor, countless thousands who might never hear these melodies in the original form, she said, become familiar with them and scores of popular songs have been made from the classics.

She then presented a few of the outstanding ones, with Miss Mabel DeWitt playing the tunes in their original form and Edythe Ross playing the popular version, with Mrs. Frank Yeager singing some of the songs.

In the early 1700's Johann Sebastian Bach composed "Preludes and Fugues", which Miss DeWitt played, and then in the 20th Century Alec Templeton took the ideas from the piece and fashioned it as Bach might have written it were he living in this age of swing and called it "Bach Goes to Town", which Mrs. Ross then played.

A few years after Bach's death there appeared on the music scene a child prodigy, Wolfgang Amedus Mozart, whose brief span of years produced an incredible amount of fine music. Of 17 piano sonatas he wrote, one of the best known is the Sonata in C Major, the first movement of which Miss DeWitt played. Mrs. Ross then played the modern version named "In an 18th Century Drawing Room" by Raymond Scott. She then, also, played "Mozart Matriculates", Alec Templeton's take off on Mozart's music.

The next composer was Franz Schubert, who was particularly gifted in writing beautiful melodies. Miss DeWitt played an excerpt from the "Unfinished Symphony" and Mrs. Ross played the "Song of Love" which is from the Unfinished Symphony. Mrs. Yeager sang "Song of Love" and in the modern there was a change in the melody of "Song of Love".

Modern songwriters find Fredric Chopin's compositions particularly adaptable. In 1941 there was a movie, "A Song to Remember", based on several of his tunes, "Til the End of Time", based from his " 'Polonaisse," "Song to Remember" from his "Etude in E Major", and the gay "E Minor Valse" has its popular version, Art Warner's "Chopin Visits Cuba" with a change of rhythm. "Fantasie Impromptu" became O. Carroll's "I'm Forever Chasing Rainbows."

From the Russian composer, Borodin, Miss DeWitt played "The Polovetskian Dance of Maidens" from "Prince Igor", and Mrs. Ross played "Stranger in Paradise" from "Kismet" arranged by Ray Austin and Freddy Martin, with Mrs. Yeager singing.

"Tonight We Love", which Mrs. Yeager sang, was based on the First Piano Concerto in B Minor, opening theme of Tschaikowsky's

Edvard Grieg, to whom the Norwegian government granted a pension so he could devote his entire time to music compositions, wrote music of a delightful rhythm, and a movie, "Song of Norway," was based on his life. Miss DeWitt played his "Nocturne", which depicted the sounds of night, the lapping waves, the trill of a bird answered by another, a passing boating party washing the waves against the and Mrs. Yeager then echoed with shore and then quiet, Mrs. Ross the modern, "Strange Music." The two pianos of Miss DeWitt and Mrs. Ross, then joined for "The Norwegian Dance" followed by "Freddy and His Fiddle," by Mrs. Yeager and Mrs. Ross.

Selections by American composers began with Rudolph Friml's "Only a Rose" with Mrs. Yeager singing, accompanied by Miss DeWitt, followed by the jazz arrangement of it by Frankie Carle, played by Mrs. Ross. The program closed with Stephen Foster's "Suwannee River", with Mrs. Yeager singing, accompanied by Miss DeWitt, after which Mrs. Ross played "Swannie Boogie Woogie" by Young.

Mrs. J. W. Boger, Mrs. L. H. Archias, Mrs. W. B. Lewis and Mrs. L S Geiger were receiving hostesses.

Prairie Ridge Club Sees Demonstration

The Prairie Ridge Extension Club met at the home of Mrs. Ray Wilson Nov. 28 with 24 members, five children, and two guests Joe Blackburn, of the home, and Mrs. Emma Montgomery. A contributive lunch was served at noon.

The business meeting was opened with the club collect and the Lord's Prayer. Roll call was answered with the names of different kinds of insurance carried by each family.

Mrs. J. O. Coffelt read the minutes of the last meeting and gave a treasury report. Mrs. Wilburn Hayes read the news letter. Mrs. Irvin Robb announced the meeting to sign up petitions for county wide brucellosis tests.

Each member is to bring a gift for the grab bag to the next meeting.

Mrs. Frank Norfleet and Mrs. Glenn Karrick gave a report on "The Informal Study or Discussion of Family Money Spending."

Mrs. Joe Bill Reid and Mrs. Nathan Wright demonstrated making buttons, collars and other decorative trim for clothing.

The next meeting will be Dec. 20 with Mrs. Glenn Karrick. There will be a gift exchange and secret pals will be revealed. New secret pals will be drawn.

Former Crew Members of Enterprise Join In Effort to Save Big Aircraft Carrier

PROUD BATTLE RECORD of the carrier Enterprise, now faded and peeling, shows the rendezvous she kept with war in the Pacific — every major action except the Coral Sea

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

BAYONNE, N J — The old aircraft carrier Enterprise is riding out her last naval battle — a fight by those who served aboard her to save her from the scrap heap.

The gray hull looms over the U. S. Naval Supply Depot at Bayonne. A peeling battle record on her forward bulkheads notes the other engagements she has kept: The Marshalls, the Solomons, the Philippines, Gilbert, Wake, Midway, Guadalcanal, Leyte, Luzon, Okinawa — every Pacific strike except the Coral Sea.

Her record: 911 Japanese aircraft downed; 71 ships sunk; 192 ships damaged.

But time, as the late Navy Secretary James Forrestal once said, has accomplished what the enemy failed to do.

Today her flight deck shelters pigeons. Her rusted hangar deck holds only a scrap of Japanese wing, a pile of dusty camp chairs, a small plaque with names like Hopping, Seid, Travis, Hunt, and Smith—the first to die after Pearl Harbor.

To put her into cruising shape today would cost three million dollars. To put her into condition for jet aircraft and atomic warfare would cost 28 million. Besides, she is 20 years old and displaces only one-third the tonnage of a new carrier like the Saratoga.

It is cheaper the U. S. Navy assesses, to sell her for scrap. And shortly the Navy will accept bids over one million dollars.

But the Enterprise will die hard —if she dies at all

An independent group of 1,300 men who once served aboard her have formed the Enterprise Association. Their unanimous purpose: To keep the old carrier as a permanent memorial.

According to the association's secretary, Harrison Welton of Stamford, Conn., the cost of turning the "Big E" into a public museum runs close to $250,000.

This sum would pay for making her seaworthy enough to be towed to her site, hauled onto land and refurnished.

The association is already negotiating with the city of San Diego, Calif., for the site. The association has assigned a captain and crew to work the carrier on her last run. And the association has elaborate plans for maintaining her as a museum.

For example, visitors would have to pay. Retired Navy men would maintain her in return for living quarters aboard. A restaurant could be set up on the flight deck to bring extra revenue. Souvenirs would be sold.

The greatest obstacle to the project today, however, is the raising of the initial $250,000.

Welton answers it this way: "There are still about 8,700 men who have not yet joined the Enterprise Association. They would swell our number to 10,000—more than enough to collect the necessary funds."

With the money in hand, San Diego's agreement and a blueprint for her maintenance, Welton is sure of the Navy's cooperation. But time is running out on both the Enterprise and the association.

As one Navy informant said: "The call for bids could come any day. And while it's wonderful how the Enterprise has bred such loyalty among her men, maybe a beautiful painting of her would be a better way to memorialize her.

"After all," he said, "it's like a beautiful woman disarmed by age. How would you like to remember her?"

Middle Of Road Plan

DETROIT (AP) — A way to eliminate catch-as-catch-can use of the middle lane on three-lane highways has come from the Auto Club of Michigan.

It would give the middle lane to drivers moving one way for several miles, then to drivers in the opposite direction for several miles.

Painted lines would designate when the change takes place. The auto club thinks the plan would cut head-on crashes.

Medical Show Was Moving Production

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Monganga" means doctor in the Swahili torgue. In the medium of television, "Monganga", one in the "March of Medicine" series which was presented on NBC-TV Tuesday evening, meant one of the most moving and absorbing documentaries in many months.

"Monganga" presented a way of life in a remote place in the Belgian Congo — a Disciples of Christ mission hospital on the Liulaka River. It was the forthright, unsentimentalized account of how a physician, Dr. John E. Ross, and his trained African assistants have lighted a lamp in a dark place.

Color cameras and sound followed the doctor as he treated patients for yaws and elephantiasis and sleeping sickness and leprosy, the virulent diseases that assail mankind in the equatorial rain forests. As calmly and factually as the doctor goes his rounds each day, the cameras recorded birth and death and rehabilitation of the maimed. There was a fascinating trip up-river to an outlying village where medicine is just beginning to push out the witch doctor's magic.

Throughout the film we had the true atmosphere of Africa. Those who saw it in color did not see exaggerations of its natural vivid hues. The sound track, not always clear in voices, was most clear in conveying the sounds of compound and hospital and — most importantly — the ceaseless ringing, singing of birds and insects in the bush.

As Dr. Ross emphasized in the documentary narrated by John Gunther, he is only one of many missionary doctors doing similar work. This certainly is true. Some time ago it was my good fortune to spend awhile in the Congo for the Associated Press and the strongest single impression I brought home with me was of the great work being performed there by medical missionaries like Dr. Ross and his wife.

Sometimes one is disappointed when he sees TV documentation of something he knows fairly well. "Monganga" did not disappoint. Dr. Ross's hospital is better equipped and staffed than many one finds in more remote places, it's true. But whether or not you had observed medical work in the Congo you realized the authenticity in this program.

It was regrettable that we could not learn more about Dr. Ross as an individual, for he first became a clergyman, and then after losing four children, began the study of medicine at the age of 36. What made him decide to take his wife and young son to Africa?

Homecoming Activities Held at Versailles

The Versailles Homecoming activities were enjoyed by a large crowd, although the basketball game with Osage was lost 77-37. More than 600 grade and high school pupils participated in the parade which also included several floats and the high school band.

Miss Karen Hughes, a senior, was crowned queen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Met Hughes. Her attendants were Patsy Downey, sophomore, Darlene Vogt, freshman and Donna Haynes, junior.

Tony Nelson, president of the student council, served as master of ceremonies. Jerry Gunckel crowned the queen.

Hungary's Rebellion Was 'A Revolution of Youth'

HUNGARY'S YOUNG FREEDOM FIGHTERS—A girl: "You get sick of secrecy and fear . . ." A boy: "Nobody can make us what we aren't . . ."

By KENNETH GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent

VIENNA —(NEA)— Istvan Szabo is just 17 years old, but he will be giving the Kremlin bosses the jitters for years to come.

They thought he and his generation were in the bag as bright-eyed, banner-waving Reds.

They thought he believed the Soviet party line from Marx to Khrushchev. They assumed he was brain-washed.

They found they had made a mistake one historic October morning when he stood behind a Budapest barricade and shot down Russian soldiers.

And when he pulled the trigger he also killed a myth.

Now Istvan has slipped across the Austro-Hungarian border to safety. He escaped to avoid the horror of deportation.

"Maybe I should have stayed," he told me, with the look of a teenager who's afraid he'll be called "chicken."

"But what could I do?" he asked. "We had nothing left to fight with. We didn't want to be taken to Russia."

Istvan—and for the protection of his family that is not his exact name—is typical of thousands of young Hungarians who turned the tables on the Russians. Many died doing it.

Raised under the Communist yoke from childhood, they were the blood and guts of the rebellion. As one expert here observed: "This was a revolution of youth."

What made these young men and women fight with such wrath?

From rebel outposts to refugee centers I asked countless young Hungarians that question.

Istvan's answer speaks for most of them.

"We just couldn't take it any longer. Life had become unbearably hard and hopeless."

Don't get the idea Hungarian youth suddenly became red hot for liberty and democracy as understood in the West. The revolt was against Russia—not against communism as such.

Practically from the time he could read and comprehend, Istvan was schooled by the Communists. And the one thing he was told time and time again was that everybody has an equal share under communism.

Ironically this doctrine boomeranged. For Istvan and others eventually realized that under the Russian version of communism they were giving everything and getting nothing. And according to Red teaching, this was an unforgivable capitalistic crime.

Istvan's bitter story was told to me in broken English minutes after he had crossed the Hungarian frontier. His voice was near the breaking point.

But he was still wearing the jaunty beret typical of the freedom fighters. In the rain we walked towards shelter with our backs to Budapest. But his thoughts were still in that shattered city.

As a factory worker, Istvan's father tried to support two girls and two boys. It was an overwhelming task.

After school Istvan worked eight hours as a sweeper in a tool plant. His brother, 14, also had a part time job. Still there was not enough money.

No decent housing was available at their pooled income. The family lived in three small rooms with no bath. And they were far better off than many others. Poverty and hardship were widespread.

Yet under these long rubbed economic sores lay other festering wounds that erupted in violent protest.

"Besides endless hours of work, we could never really be ourselves," says Istvan. "We could never say what we thought and do what we wanted.

"Until you experience it, you'll never know what it's like to live under the Russians. We were never free. They watched us all the time along with the secret police."

Maria Fekete, a 20-year-old student nurse who helped to care for the wounded rebels in Budapest, has also come across the border.

Her words are succinct:

"You get sick of secrecy and fear, so sick you'll do anything to get rid of it."

And there's Laszo Kovacs, a farmer's son who says he's 20 but looks 16. Here's why he fought in the countryside against the Russians.

"We had to do it. We're Hungarians, and nobody from the outside can run our lives. Nobody can make us what we aren't.

"They'll keep trying, but they'll never really succeed."

Says Reds Gave False Information

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio Free Europe says a Communist radio falsely identifying itself as RFE had deluded Hungarian rebels into expecting armed assistance from the West.

In a statement Friday RFE referred to an assertion made in Brussels, Belgium, by Anna Kethly, exiled president of the Hungarian Social Democrat party. She said RFE had played an unhappy role in the Red-aborted Hungarian revolution.

The RFE said:

"It has become apparent that the Hungarian, language broadcasts of several radio stations operating outside Hungary have been confused with Radio Free Europe transmissions to Hungary during the period of the Hungarian uprising . . .

". . . Hungarian-language broadcasts reporting the massing of Western forces to come to the aid of Hungary were beamed to Hungary by the Communist radio located in East Germany. These Communist programs were broadcast in the name of Radio Free Europe."

The RFE, a private, voluntary agency, also termed "utterly without foundation and wholly incorrect" a statement by Miss Kethly that the radio outlet in 1952 had described her as the leader of a great liberation movement in Hungary from her jail cell. Miss Kethly had been imprisoned by the Communists.

The RFE said:

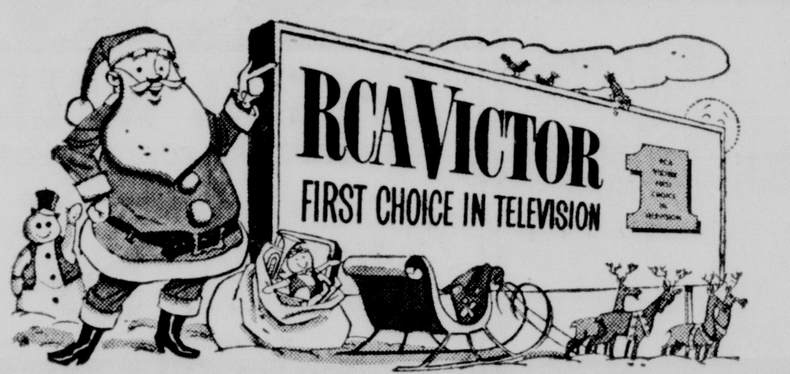

"Tape recordings of all Radio Free Europe broadcasts during the period in question are open to inspection."

Real Sheriff Meets Standin In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wal, sir, it was bound to happen in this here electronic age: The real sheriff of Cochise County, Arizona, has come to Hollywood.

Square-jawed and gimlet-eyed, just like he should be, Jack Howard ambled in from his huge patch of mountain and desert yesterday to look over another tough-looking hombre, John Bromfield, who holds the office of "Sheriff of Cochise" on a television show of the same name.

Things being what they are these days, Sheriff Howard has a little time on his hands after subduing the bad guys, and Sheriff Bromfield has a press agent — so it was only natural they'd get together.

The show folk on the TV set allowed there were certain similarities between Bromfield and Howard besides their firm jaws: Both have good contracts. Howard is serving as sheriff for the third time; he just got re-elected by a vote of 8,700.

"Other fellow got 31," Howard observed. He's kind of taciturn.

Watching a scene from the TV series being filmed, Howard heard the dialog go like this:

Sheriff: What made your husband think something might happen to him, ma'am?

Widow: Well, sheriff, we all got to die sometime.

Sheriff: Yes, ma'am.

Sheriff Howard showed no visible emotion as he listened.

Later, in Bromfield's dressing room, he conceded Cochise County isn't as tough today as it was in the era Bromfield's show represents. Tombstone then was a one-way street to the graveyard. Today Howard has 26 deputies. They keep the county pretty orderly.

Howard says he gets a lot of mail from kids who watch the TV show. One little boy in Indiana, he said, wrote him: "Sheriff, you always get your man and prove that crime doesn't pay."

Now, not even a real-life sheriff is going to deny that.

The gun Bromfield wears in the show is notched like a washboard. When he showed it to the sheriff, Howard confessed:

"To tell you the truth, I only pulled mine twice. And no notches."

Then he asked Bromfield: "Son, how old are you?"

"Thirty-one, sheriff," John answered.

"Thirty-one!" echoed the 50-year-old law man. "Son, I'd give a hundred dollars to be thirty-one!"

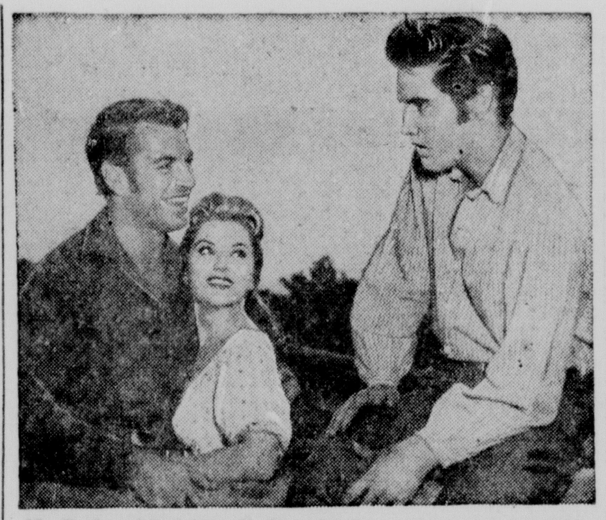

Then he hitched up his pants, and rode off into the Hollywood sunset.

American Home Talks

The Houstonia Women's Club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Hayman Higgins with 21 present. Guests were Mrs. Jim Higgins and Mrs. Smith Higgins.

The club opened with the president, Mrs. Jack Morris, reading from the Upper Room, followed by the salute to the flag and the club song. A report was given on the convention at Butler.

Names were drawn for the Christmas exchange. A letter was read from Mrs. Kemper about Girls' Town. Mrs. James Blackburn was chairman of the American Homes committee. "Beware of Racketeers" was the title of a talk given by Mrs. Jay Dorsey. Mrs. Blackburn gave an article on Thanksgiving and Mrs. John Rissler on "Doubletalk." Several songs were sung appropriate to the Thanksgiving season. The hostess served refreshments.

Mr. Rock and Roll himself, Elvis Presley, makes his screen debut in "Love Me Tender", starting today at Fox Theatre. Filmed in Cinemascope, the Singer's initial screen appearance is highlighted by four songs, including the title hit. The outdoor adventure film also co-stars Richard Egan and Debra Paget.

Film Studios Stretch Code To Its Limit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can film audiences take it?

There is increasing evidence that they can. There once was a time when Hollywood steered clear of hot controversy and delicate topics. Sure, the movies took stands against Nazis, communism, injustice and bigotry, but you couldn't find much argument among thinking Americans on those scores.

Critics claimed that in its zeal to offend no one, Hollywood ended up by pleasing no one.

The whole philosophy has changed. The studios are now attacking a variety of hot subjects and are stretching the production code as far as it can go. There is even a move under way to change the code.

George Stevens has helped light the way in the attack on controversy. Dire things were predicted when he announced he would film "Giant." The book was not well received in some Texas circles. One rugged Lone Star Stater even threatened, "If you show that damn picture, we'll shoot the screen full of holes!"

"Giant" has now played Texas and there are no reports of perforated screens. In fact, John Rosenfield, the noted critic of the Dallas Morning News, reported the film has been doing smash business in Texas.

Rosenfield wrote: "Not one Texas theater reports abnormal audience behavior, other than youngsters ripping all pictures of James Dean out of the lobby display frames."

Stevens didn't pussyfoot in his treatment of the Edna Ferber novel, either. He jibes the Texans on their insular attitude, their displays of wealth. A crack is made about the 27½ per cent oil depletion tax allowance which has created fabulous fortunes. And the climax concerns discrimination against Mexicans.

Happy over the "Giant" receipts Texas theater chain operator R.J. O'Donnell remarked, "The public is not as 'touchy' as you might expect."

Women's Guild Hears Purpose of Guild

An executive meeting of the Women's Guild of the St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed Church was held Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Paul Meisenheimer, Pilot Grove.

The meeting opened with the reading of the purpose of the Women's Guild and a prayer.

The following chairmen then explained and outlined their part of the work: Mrs. Ernest Walje, spiritual life and thank offering; Mrs. Herman Ries, Christian education; Mrs. Karl Bergman, Christian service; Mrs. Gilbert Schupp, Christian stewardship; Miss Lorene Schupp, Christian social action and Mrs. Lewis Schupp, missionary.

Miss Kathryn Ries, Sedalia, was a guest.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

WMS Program With Radio-Like Format

The WMS meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Grimes, opened with prayer by Mrs. Roy Cunningham.

Mrs. Roy Holman was in charge of the business session. A note of thanks was read from a Carver School student for a love gift sent by the WMS. A motion was made to send cash offerings to help on missionary fields where most needed.

The morning session dismissed for lunch served to ten members and three visitors. Bro. Bob Gross gave the blessing. Mrs. Bob Gross joined the Society club.

The afternoon session opened with prayer by Mrs. Hubert Hall. The group sang the WMS hymn.

The program, "Christian World News Roundup," was presented in the form of a radio broadcast with Mrs. Roy Holman tuning into the station, Mrs. Roy Cunningham was the announcer.

Mrs. Tom Fletcher was reporting correspondent on Ruschlikon; Mrs. Jim Blaylock on Hong Kong; Mrs. Nina Grimes, Nigeria; Mrs. Hubert Hall, Moscow; Mrs. Earl Wood, Havana, and Mrs. Fletcher, acting correspondent on Belgrade in the absence of Mrs. C. Blaylock.

Mrs. Tom Fletcher gave the dismissal prayer.

The next meeting, Dec. 5, will be with Mrs. Jim Blaylock.

Father of Israeli Army Was Great British General

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON — The father of the Israeli Army was not a Jew, nor a native of Palestine He was a British Army officer who was a brilliant soldier but mentally unstable and considered a bad security risk by his own superiors.

He was Maj. Gen. Orde C. Wingate, leader of the famous Chindit guerrilla fighters in Burma during the last war, who was killed in an airplane accident on the Burma-Assam border in 1944.

Now 12 years after his death, the full facts of Wingate's life are coming to light. They show why he is one of the most revered heroes in Israel today, why young Israeli fighters carried Wingate's Bible with them into battle against the Egyptians and why one of the frontier farm settlements has been named in his honor.

For Wingate, a non-Jew, was one of the most ardent Zionists of them all. He taught the Jews to carry the fight to the Arabs, fashioned the raw recruits of the illegal Hagana Army into an offensive striking force And in doing so, he risked a court martial and the ruin of his Army career.

"Wingate taught me all I know," Gen. Moshe Dayan, chief-of-staff of the Israeli Army, has publicly acknowledged. And many another Israeli staff officer would say the same.

Wingate was a friend of Ben-Gurion the Israeli Prime Minister, and of the late Chaim Weizmann, a founder of modern Zionism, as well as being on intimate terms with Moshe Sharett, a former Israeli premier.

These men trusted Wingate with their most closely guarded secrets, although their Zionist organization was frowned upon by the British at the time and Wingate himself was an intelligence officer attached to British headquarters, Jerusalem.

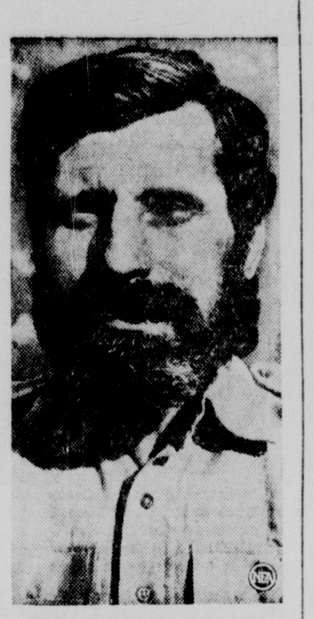

Such is the strange story of one of Britain's most colorful soldier-prophets, as disclosed in a recent biography of Wingate, and in numerous letters and articles in the British press.

Although Sir Winston Churchilll called Wingate "a man of genius and audacity," the British could not trust him entirely.

Field Marshal Waveli thought him "the most brilliant soldier in the war" yet, it is generally conceded that Wingate might have betrayed Britain under certain circumstances.

"If only we had more like him," opined President Roosevelt; yet Wingate was considered by many to be a madman. In a fit of despair, Wingate tried to commit suicide by slitting his throat with a rusty Ethiopian knife during the height of the East African campaign.

Wingate, as he emerges today, was a religious zealot, which accounts for his passionate interest in founding a Jewish national home. Raised on the Old Testament, he was already a convinced Zionist by the time he reached Jerusalem as a British intelligence officer in 1936

GEN. ORDE C. WINGATE: An alarm clock on his wrist.

He went further. He fancied himself as the modern Gideon, to whom the Lord had said, "Go in this thy might and thou shalt save Israel."

And a strange Gideon he appeared both to his spick and span British army colleagues and to his Jewish friends alike. Wingate did not believe in washing while on campaign: instead he brushed his body with a scouring brush, while singing Psalms or reading the Bible aloud.

His clothes were filthy. He wore a greasy brush jacket and a battered Indian topee and carried an alarm clock strapped around his wrist.

He was subject to bouts of depression, during which he fancied that Satan perched on his shoulder, "Oh, God why have You forsaken me?" he would groan aloud on such occasions.

But he taught the Jews how to fight, how to strike back at the enemy, instead of waiting for the enemy to attack.

It was the time of the Arab rebellion in Palestine, when armed gangs moved across the Syrian border to harass the British Army, charged with keeping the peace between Arab and Jew, and to raid the new Jewish settlements.

Gen. (later Field Marshal) Wavell, who was in command in Palestine, gave Wingate permission to open a guerrilla warfare school to train Jewish fighters. This was the beginning of the Special Night Squads, whose leaders now form the elite of the Israeli Army.

They were commandos trained in hit-and-run tactics, traveling lightly in gym sneakers with only rifles and hand grenades as their equipment.

Wingate was recalled to England in disgrace in 1939 for putting "the interests of the Jews before those of his own country."

However he went on to fame and glory first in Ethiopia, where he defeated the Italians and helped to restore the Emperor Haile Selassie to his throne: then in the jungles of Burma, where as a major general he met his death. But for the rest of his life, he carried a passport endorsed: "The bearer of this passport should not be allowed to enter Palestine."

The hours between 2 and 4 p.m. on Saturdays are the most dangerous period for accidents on farms, a recent Pennsylvania survey shows. Teenage boys are most likely to have accidents in their hasty efforts to finish in time for Saturday night dates.

Block Edging Helps Keep Grass, Weeds Out of Flower Beds

Making an attractive lawn and flower edging with block is another good do-it-yourself project. This will keep grass from encroaching on flower beds and other areas where not wanted. And edging gives added beauty and trimness to your flower beds, too.

Special block can be purchased in many areas that is so designed that the lawn mower wheel runs along one edge, cutting grass completely, and eliminating tedious extra trim.

Here's how you lay the edging block: merely lay in a line or a trench dug to proper depth. Or you can use reinforcing rods through holes provided. They're easiest to align if set in a bed of sand. They can also be laid in gentle curves.

Hold Back to School Night in Versailles

A large crowd attended Back to School night at the Versailles grade school.

The invocation and a short talk were given by the Rev. O. L. Thompson. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Jim Frank Hughes, president.

Room count was won by Mrs. McDonald's first grade.

A report of the recent PTA convention was given by Mrs. Ralph Six. The principal, Kern Etter, welcomed parents and guests and gave a short talk on the importance of the basic studies in the school's curriculum.

The parents then visited the classrooms where the teachers and children gave a demonstration of their regular classroom work.

Action In Traffic Jam Test of Man's Character

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One test of a man's character is what he does during a traffic jam.

Do you remain a fuming prisoner of the passing moments in such a situation? Or do you—this is the mark of the superior man—employ them for self-improvement and thus score a victory over time?

Many busy people complain the day isn't long enough for them to get done half the things they'd like to. They complain often that traffic jams cause them to waste more time than anything else, and usually add, "But there doesn't seem to be anything that can be done about it."

They are looking at the problem from a short-sighted angle. They look for a solution that will end traffic jams, which, since the world is getting more crowded every day, is manifest nonsense.

The dynamic approach is this: "Since traffic jams are here to stay, how can I use wisely the time I spend caught in them?"

Inspect a line of motorists in any traffic jam, and what are they doing? The odds are high that the great majority will be (1) futilely blowing their horns, (2) cussing, (3) girl watching, (4) either dozing, listening to their wife, or both.

With the possible exception of girl watching, none of these activities fall into a constructive category. All the rest waste precious time and energy.

One might well ask defensively, "Well, just what do you expect me to do during traffic jams—go through college?"

As a matter of fact, why not? An average of 25 million Americans must waste at least 15 minutes a day in traffic jams. That comes to about 2,281,000,000 lost hours a year. Since a college student spends only about 7,200 hours on his studies in a four - year course, the time wasted by motorists each year in traffic jams would send 316,805 people through college.

Maybe the idea of going through college while your car is stalled doesn't appeal to you. But you can at least study a few correspondence courses on hour to get ahead on your job.

You can also even study for a new career while you are endlessly waiting for the car ahead to start. There are some jobs, of course, you can't practice while sitting in a stalled car—such as piano tuning, or, should you yearn to be a lifeguard, the technique of rescuing a drowning person.

On the other hand, there are certain pursuits which can easily be mastered while sitting in a car waiting for the lights to change, e.g., opera singing, clarinet playing, ventriloquism, public speaking, song writing, and cheating at cards.

Traffic jams can also be utilized to improve one's culture. During the 91 hours a year the average man spends in them he can easily read all the books on the best seller list. (One man who has to make frequent cab trips across midtown Manhattan said that he went through the Encyclopaedia Britannica in less than two years in this manner.)

If one doesn't mind carrying a small bag, it is also easy to follow one's hobby during traffic jams, whether it be stamp collecting, quilting, or making bird cages.

I have heard of one man, a swimming pool salesman, who says he owes his success in life to traffic jam. Instead of calling at the home of prospects, he merely drives along until he comes to a good traffic jam, then parks, gets out and makes his sales pitch to the stalled motorists.

"They can't get away," he observed, "and you'd be surprised at how many guys caught in an automobile on a hot day jump at the chance to buy a nice cool swimming pool."

Any guy can get caught in a traffic jam today. But it's the guy who uses this lost time to his own advantage who gets ahead in the battle of life.

Flat Creek Club Has Talks on Decorating

The Flat Creek Extension Club met at the home of Mrs. W. J. Paul Nov. 27 with Mrs. Robert Pottorff as assistant hostess. A contributive dinner was served to 27 members and one guest, Mrs. Robert Wilson.

The afternoon meeting was opened with the club collect led by the president. After the club song was sung, led by Mrs. Isaac Snow, the devotional was given by Mrs. Henry Alt. The Lord's prayer was led by Mrs. R. L. Wadleigh.

Mrs. Eldon Wissman and Mrs. C. H. Hopkins gave a report on "Decorative Trim." Both showed ideas learned at the clothing meeting for decorating clothing.

Mrs. Jerome Murray read the revised by-laws. Mrs. Charles Keele read a letter from Miss O'Briant.

The club voted for a Christmas party supper for the families on Dec. 27 at Anderson school.

Beat That Bell

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—Wofford College has a 102-year-old bell which plays an unusual role.

The bell not only tolls the beginning and end of classes, but is the instrument of a scholarship for a student each school year.

The student bell-ringer earns his scholarship by making 13 trips to the bell each day. On each trip he tugs the big rope 10 times for a daily total of 130 lusty tugs.

During each 102-day semester, the student bell-ringer pulls the rope more than 13,000 times.
